UNCERTAINTY RETURNS AS NEW MUTANT SPREADS

Equity markets crash, oil prices tumble

ARSHAD KHAN & RAKESH KUMAR @ New Delhi

REPORTS of a heavily mutated Covid-19 variant on Friday sent global and domestic equity markets into a tizzy. Indian equity markets saw ₹4.5 lakh crore worth of investors' wealth getting eroded as both the benchmark indices – BSE Sensex and NSE Nifty – fell by around 3%. US stocks opened lower while London's benchmark fell by 3.3% at the opening. Tokyo, Shanghai, Frankfurt and Hong Kong also fell.

The tremors were also felt in the global oil market as well, as Brent Crude shed over 10% to trade around $73.34 a barrel on Friday. India's equity market saw its biggest single day fall in recent times on Friday. The Sensex shed 1,688 points or 2.87% to close at 57,107, and the Nifty was down 510 points or 2.91% to 17,027. Friday's bloodbath was caused by discovery of a new mutation of coronavirus in Africa (B.1.1.529), which poses another set of challenges to global economic recovery.

Amit Gupta, fund manager, portfolio management services at ICICI Securities said, "Nervousness on the new variant and expectations of US increasing the pace of tapering have led to recent market weakness. This trend may take some time to recover as the WHO meeting on the new mutant variant impact and hospitalisation rates in US and Europe will be watched by the market very closely."

Other than the discovery of the new Covid variant, the release of crude oil reserves by the US and other countries leading to an increase in global supply also caused the 10% drop in oil prices.

Recently, the US had made a request to some of the world's largest oil-consuming nations, including China, India and Japan, to release oil from their strategic reserves to check the skyrocketing prices. India and the US decided to release 5 million and 50 million barrels of oil, respectively, from their stockpile. According to the findings of a panel of experts that advises ministers of the Organisation of the Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC), such release is likely to perk up supplies further in the coming months. OPEC and its allies, a group known as OPEC+, are set to meet on December 2 to weigh their options.

Regular int'l flights to resume on Dec 15

KUMAR VIKRAM @ New Delhi

THE Ministry of civil Aviation on Friday announced the resumption of scheduled international flights to and from India from December 15. The ministry, however, said certain restrictions would apply to countries based on their risk assessment and air-bubble deals.

Countries categorised as at-risk and having air bubble agreement with India would resume 75% of pre-Covid scheduled international flights or a minimum of seven frequencies a week, whichever is higher. Countries under the at-risk category include the UK, South Africa, Brazil, Bangladesh, Botswana, China, Mauritius, New Zealand, Zimbabwe, Singapore and Hong Kong.

An order issued by the civil aviation ministry said the decision was taken after consultations with the Ministry of Home Affairs, the Ministry of External Affairs and the Ministry of Health and Family Welfare. Resumption of international passenger services would imply reversion to bilaterally-agreed capacity and termination of the air bubble arrangements.

Countries identified as not 'at-risk' by the Health Ministry would get full capacity entitlements according to the bilateral air service agreements. For a country identified as 'at-risk' and not having an air-bubble agreement, only 50% of bilateral capacity entitlements or 50% of pre-Covid operations, whichever is higher, would be permitted.

Bilateral air service agreements are signed between countries to operate scheduled passenger flights. This determines the number of airlines, ports of entries and total flights weekly that can be allowed. Under air bubble agreements, airlines of two countries operate special flights under certain restrictions.

"The seats under air bubble arrangement that have already been sold by airlines, which are more than the capacity entitlements under bilateral air service agreements, will be allowed to be operated till December 14, 2021," the aviation ministry said, adding such airlines would restrict their operations to capacity entitlements enter bilateral air service agreements with effect from December 15.

Dynastic politics biggest threat to democracy: Modi

PM targets Congress as 14 opposition parties boycott Constitution Day event in Parliament

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ New Delhi

WITH 14 opposition parties including the Congress, the TMC, the DMK and the Left parties boycotting the Constitution Day event in the Central Hall of Parliament on Friday, Prime Minister Narendra Modi tore into family-run parties calling them a danger to democracy.

Noting that dynastic parties are a matter of concern to people committed to the Constitution, Modi said, "More than one person from a family joining the party on the basis of merit does not make the party dynastic. Problems arise when a party is run by the same family, generation after generation."

Targeting the Opposition parties that boycotted the event, Modi said the country will not listen to those who turn their back on an important event to respect the Constitution, which has the name of Babasaheb Ambedkar attached to it.

"When a political party loses its own democratic character, how can it protect democracy? Today, from Kashmir to Kanyakumari, look at every corner of India, the country is moving towards a crisis that should worry every individual who respects the Constitution and that comes from dynastic parties. This is against the principles of the Constitution," the PM said.

Elaborating on the spirit behind celebrating the Constitution Day, Modi said it was initiated in 2015. Modi recalled how he faced resistance when the idea to dedicate a day in the name of the Constitution was mooted. "I remember when I was addressing the House in 2015 on B R Ambedkar's 125th anniversary and making this announcement, even then there was resistance. Why are you doing this? What is the need?" the Prime Minister said.

Speaking on the occasion, the President Ramnath Kovind said, "All Members of Parliament are defenders of the dignity of Parliament, whether they represent the ruling party or the Opposition." P9

'Boycott to protest authoritarian govt'

Justifying its decision to boycott the Constitution Day event in Parliament, the Congress said it was to register its protest against the authoritarian functioning of the Narendra Modi-led government at the Centre

Worrying trend as 4 Covid clusters pop up in state

RANJANI MADHAVAN, AMIT S UPADHYE & KARTHIK KK @Bengaluru, Hubballi, Mysuru

AT least four Covid clusters have erupted in Karnataka over the last few days — two in Bengaluru, and one each in Dharwad and Mysuru — in a worrying turnaround from a steady decline amid fears of a new SARS-CoV-2 virus variant entering the country.

A day after news broke of two Covid clusters in educational institutions in Dharwad and Bengaluru, 12 students of Spurthy College of Nursing in Marsur, Anekal in Bengaluru tested positive on Friday. The other existing cluster was the one detected on Thursday at The International School Bangalore (TISB), a residential educational institution that saw 33 students and one staffer being infected.

While Bengaluru's two clusters have 46 positive cases, Dharwad's SDM Medical College reported a total of 204 cases, of which 138 were reported on Friday. The Mysuru cluster is from two private nursing colleges — St Joseph's Nursing College and Cauvery Nursing College — where 48 cases have been detected over the last few days, of which 25 were reported on Friday. However, most of the cases are asymptomatic, while those with symptoms have a mild infection.

In Bengaluru, a health officer said, "The nursing college students were tested on Thursday and the reports turned out to be positive on Friday. None of them had any travel history. All, except one, are vaccinated." The lone student who had not received the shot had tested Covid positive previously and did not take the vaccine after that. Nine students are symptomatic with mild symptoms, while three are asymptomatic. The nine have been isolated at a Covid Care Centre in Jigani. P3

ACTIVE CASES CLIMBING

There is a sudden spurt in Covid-19 cases in the state. Active cases which were on the decline are on the rise, while recovery rate which was climbing, stayed at 98.50 on Friday. Bengaluru saw its recovery rate falling from 98.29% to 98.28%.

It could be resurgence of virus, warn experts

CHETANA BELAGERE & RANJANI MADHAVAN @ Bengaluru

WITH the increase in clusters, indicating a resurgence of Covid in the State, the health department, along with the Technical Advisory Committee, is stepping up measures to contain the spread. While officials are thinking of changing the testing pattern, the genome sequencing committee is sequencing the samples collected from the clusters to see if it's the same Delta variant that is increasing the numbers or any new variant or mutation that has surfaced.

State Health Commissioner D Randeep said, "Cluster outbreaks are common. We have at least seven such clusters now. But the number of cases in these clusters has taken us by surprise and it calls for reassessing of the Covid situation in the state."

While reasons for outbreaks are closed congregations, hostel stay and travel, at Spurthy College of Nursing in Bengaluru, there was no report of any student travelling or attending any closed-door events. Experts said the number of cases in clusters at Dharwad, Bengaluru's Bommasandra school and Mysuru is alarming and calls for immediate attention to find the variant behind these clusters. K'TAKA HEIGHTENS SURVEILLANCE OF INTERNATIONAL TRAVELLERS

With the new Covid variant, B.1.1529, detected in Botswana and South Africa, the state government is increasing surveillance of all international travellers. A three-pronged strategy will be followed: Screening and testing of travellers and their contacts, routine sentinel surveillance and surge surveillance, as well as, timely sending of RT-PCR positive samples to designated INSACOG Genomic Sequencing Laboratories.

Tech City has no electricity to give this govt school

ASHWINI M SRIPAD @ Bengaluru

THE contrast could not be starker. The political power centre and tech capital of the country Bengaluru is home to a government school that runs without electricity for the last seven years.

Students attend classes in the open and run into classrooms when it rains. As it is dark inside, the lone teacher for the school lights a candle and continues with classes.

The Government Tamil Higher Primary School, which was started in 1930, is situated on Commissariat Road in Ashok Nagar that is just 4 km from Vidhana Soudha. Ten students from classes 1 to 9 attend the school, while only one teacher is assigned to them. The power connection to the school was cut seven years ago, as it could not afford to pay the electricity bills, said sources from the Department of Public Instruction.

Neither the Education Department nor the elected representative has taken interest in reviving the school, said sources from the Department. "The number of students too has been going down over the years. Moreover, the school is situated in a prime commercial area, close to Garuda Mall. Vested interests want it shut so that they can use this piece of land for commercial activities," they added.

Official sources confirmed that there is indeed a proposal to demolish the building. That is also one of the reasons why there is no interest in resuming power supply to the school, they said. CONTINUED ON : P7

SSLC SYLLABUS LIKELY TO BE CUT BY 20 PC

Relief to students, teachers; Unable to complete all lessons in limited time, say schools

PEARL MARIA D'SOUZA @Bengaluru

IN a relief to schools, the Karnataka Secondary Education Examination Board announced that the board will reduce syllabus for SSLC students. The department is contemplating truncating it by 20 per cent, as Class 10 students, with crucial board examinations ahead, are behind schedule in finishing the syllabus.

Commissioner for Public Instruction Vishal R has already held talks with the Department of State Educational Research and Training (DSERT), the academic wing of the Department of Public Instruction. Vishal told TNIE that the department is trying to rationalise the syllabus to 80 per cent for Class 10. The final syllabus has been chalked out and will be released soon.

Unlike other classes, students of Class 10 had been exempt from writing board examinations even during the pandemic. The exam is considered to be a quantifier in terms of their learning outcomes.

Since schools have already completed a certain part of syllabus till November, a top DSERT official said the remaining syllabus, to be completed from December to April, will be revised. "Two or four chapters could be reduced," he added. The previous year, the syllabus was cut by 30 per cent.

The official said they were expecting schools to remain open on Saturday and Sunday to complete the syllabus. However, teachers and school associations approached the department with requests for truncation, as time is limited.

The reduction of syllabus comes as a relief to students and teachers. A government school student of Class 10 told TNIE that the previous year, they could not grasp online classes, and offline classes were needed for clearing doubts. Revision classes for Class 9 were also held online, and offline classes started directly with Class 10 syllabus, she rued. "What would be spread across three days is completed a little more than one period. Social Science, Science and Mathematics have vast syllabus and it's difficult at this pace," she said.

Government school teacher RN Vasantha, who has 39 classes in Social Science this academic year, said both teachers and students were stressed. This reduction comes as a huge relief as they will get time for revision. "Classes can be extended till April-end. This gives us enough time to get feedback, revise and hold preparatory tests; 80 per cent syllabus is needed to maintain a minimum level of learning," she said.

President of Karnataka State High School Teachers' Association Manjunath H K agreed that it was a burden for children to grasp all lessons as they were away from school for over a year. Lokesh Talikatte, state unit president of Recognised Unaided Private Schools' Association (RUPSA) said, "This was needed to aid students who could not access online classes earlier. RUPSA, high school teachers and progressive thinkers placed a demand to either postpone exams or reduce the syllabus."

Metro half-yearly revenue rises 4-fold over last yr

S LALITHA @Bengaluru

IN a clear indication that Bangalore Metro Rail Corporation Limited (BMRCL) is recovering from the massive beating it took during the pandemic, the operational revenue for the first half of the 2021-2022 financial year shows a four-fold increase over the corresponding period last year.

Due to the pandemic, BMRCL had shut down operations from three months (April 28 to June 20) this year while it closed operations for six months (March 21 to September 6) in 2020. It functioned only for restricted hours even after it opened up and has only last week resumed train operations for 17.5 hours a day. The operational revenue suffered a massive beating due to the closures, taking it back to operational losses.

A top Metro official said the operational income (fare revenue as well as non-box revenue) stood at Rs 57.81 crore for April-September this year as compared to Rs 15.66 crore during the corresponding period last year. "This is a four-fold increase and definitely an indication that BMRCL is now recovering financially from the massive slump. Going by these trends, we are looking at achieving operational profit within the next six to eight months," he explained.

The ridership trend is gradually becoming healthy. For the last one week, the average ridership hovered around 3 lakh passengers a day as compared to an average of around 5.5 lakh per day before Covid struck, the official said. The total borrowings of BMRCL stood at Rs 25,481 crore which also includes the interest-free loan from both the State and the Centre, the half-yearly balance sheet reveals. In addition, there is the owners' equity of Rs 10, 892 crore. "There are adequate funds available and there are no financial problems for our projects," he explained.

The financial cost estimate for Phase-II is Rs 26,485 crore with an additional Rs 14,788 crore for Phase 2A (Outer Ring Road Line) and Phase 2B (Airport Line). Phase-I had cost Rs 13,485 crore.

Tremors, blast rattle city; no seismic activity

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

Light tremors and a loud blast rattled parts of Bengaluru on Friday morning, leading to a mild panic among citizens. Residents of Mandya and Ramanagara also reported a similar experience.

Netizens took to social media to wonder if a supersonic plane had shot past, or if it was a quarry blast, as windows and doors rattled. Others recollected a massive explosion in Shivamogga in January this year, when six people had died.

Officials from the Karnataka State Natural Disaster Monitoring Centre and India Meteorological Department stepped in to state that it was not an earthquake. Manoj Rajan, Director, KSNDMC, said no loud sound or seismic activity was reported in the city or surrounding areas.

KSNDMC's statement said, "Reports of sound associated with mild vibrations were received by local residents from Hemmigepura, Kengeri, Jnanabharati, Rajarajeshwari Nagar and Kaggalipura between 11.50am and 12.15pm. The data was analysed in our seismic observatories. The seismographs shows no signature of local tremor or earthquake."

Mines and geology department officials also checked if any blast or quarry work was going on illegally in Bengaluru and its surroundings. Ram Prasad, department director, said: "No permission for mining or blasting was given."

27th November : Surprisingly, we are still puzzling over whether there used to be life on Mars, the red planet. The evidence is stacking up in favour of an ancient ocean which would have contained sea creatures. But are there little green men - or LGM as we know them - now? There aren't of course - and I'm glad. It makes life in our solar system much simpler!

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
For once your chart favours speculation, so if you're in the mood for a flutter, I can see you coming out on top. It may be an emotional risk that's on your mind, in which case you may proceed with confidence. However, the pre-condition is that you always try to see the world through partners' eyes.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
It would be the easiest thing in the world for you to blame other people for current worries. Yet you may be partly responsible yourself, largely on account of your failure to say what you're really feeling. If somebody is to be honest with you, you need to play fair with them.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
It is time once again to don your commander's hat in readiness for the battles to come. You may be very confident, for future conflicts have already been rehearsed. You'll therefore know exactly what's going on before it happens. At least, that's the theory!

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Welcome round to the time of month when home and family affairs must take the highest priority. Rather than squander a celestial opportunity, you should look around and see what improvements are necessary to maintain harmonious relationships.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
It's a time for travel and communication. Pick up that phone, write those letters, take that trip and get in touch. Financial discussions and decisions seem to be crucial. Wherever you are, whatever you're doing, you'll get nowhere unless you've got the facts straight.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
You've done well, but it may be some time yet before you are able to pursue your most personal goals. If you're the type to plan ahead, set yourself a nine-month schedule. As for now, just get on and enjoy current relationships for all they're worth.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
You're in control today. The only drawback may be a tendency to be rather too emotional. Creative pleasures and social enjoyment both have their place, but deep inside you're looking for something else, something more meaningful. Hang on to your sense of humour.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
The general planetary set-up may not be perfect, but it is very fortunate. Be sure to spend as much time as you need by yourself, for your spiritual batteries need recharging. Set your sights on solid long-term improvements at home, and don't let negative attitudes put you off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Throughout the coming months you will have to reform and clarify your opinions and attitudes. Friendly contacts over the next two days will give you an idea of how other people think, so look, listen and learn. You might discover something to your advantage.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
It would be wiser to avoid situations which make you tense or uneasy. On the other hand, it is true that the stars are on your side, bringing an air of worthwhile achievement and a feeling of goodwill whenever you take the right steps. Your conscience will be your guide.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
You may find it possible to forget about emotional traumas. If so, you're lucky, for it will be easier to relax and enjoy today's positive romantic and social trends. Settle your spending plans over the next few days, and make your intentions abundantly clear.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Thoughts and dreams will merge in your bountiful imagination. You may know what you think, but what do you feel? Today's stars are splendid for all poets and painters but, if you're pursuing practical measures, think before you act, otherwise you'll probably pick up the wrong end of the stick.

Parents to decide on offline classes

Officials say nothing to worry about, precautionary measures in place in schools, hostels

PEARL MARIA D' SOUZA
@Bengaluru

EVEN as 33 students and one staffer of a private school in the city tested positive for Covid-19, education and social welfare department officials seem confident that the prevailing rules and their robustness will prevent any spread. But parents are concerned and are waiting for a few days to gauge the situation, before taking a call on continuing with offline classes for their wards.

Commissioner for Public Instruction Vishal R told TNIE that sufficient measures have already been outlined in the SOPs issued when schools opened, with local issues to be attended by the Block Education Officer, Taluk Health Officer and District Health Officer. "There is nothing in addition because precautionary measures are well set out in the SOPs," he said.

Meanwhile, the social welfare department has under its purview more than 1,900 hostels, with more than 1.46 lakh students from Class 1 to post-matriculation.

Dr G P Devaraj, Joint Director (Education), social welfare department, told TNIE that the latest circular on precautions was issued in July-August, with guidelines on use of sanitiser, mask and regular health checks, besides a mandatory isolation room.

Educationist Niranjanaradhya VP, equally confident, said parents need not be anxious as the medical community is of the opinion that India has developed herd immunity and chances of the third wave spreading is bleak. "Medical guidelines should be followed, and all care should be taken to give support to children, especially those with previous medical conditions."

"We have already allowed additional buildings such as nearby schools or rented buildings to be used in case there are more than the limited number of seats. Hostels have been told to ensure the number of students per room are reduced," said Devaraj.

Parents of children in private schools are being alerted, with the outbreak in The International School Bengaluru. A parent of an IGCSE school said she has not sent her child to school, and wanted to send information about vaccination as "the third wave is upon us". Examinations also are under way but are online, she said.

A parent of a CBSE school student in ITPL said he is apprehensive about vaccinating his children.

NEW WORRY

'South Africa variant cause of concern'

IF the cluster is caused by the Delta variant, there is no reason to worry. However, if it is the new variant detected in Botswana and South Africa, it is a cause of concern, said Dr Pradeep Banandur, head of the epidemiology department at the National Institute of Mental Health and Neurosciences (NIMHANS) and a member of Covid Technical Advisory Committee. The samples have been sent for genomic sequencing, he added.

In Bengaluru, Dr KV Thrilok Chandra, Special Commissioner (Health), Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike, said the genomic sequencing of previous clusters did not find any different variant from what was already circulating. They all belonged to the Delta variant.

On the clusters over the past two days, he said, "We get such clusters once in a while, but they are one-off cases. The week-on-week positivity rate has not increased. But we need to be watchful."

Meanwhile, the state health department is proposing changing the testing strategy. Recently, on the advice of TAC after Covid cases started to reduce, the department had not only gone for target testing, but also limited the numbers to 30,000 in Bengaluru and 60,000 in the State. Now the department wants to reintroduce random testing to identify asymptomatic patients, which could be, according to Randeep, more problematic.

138 fresh cases in Dharwad

"The students who tested positive are in BSc first year and stay at the hostel. The remaining students who are in the final year are taking their final exams and that is the reason we are not closing the college. If any of them report symptoms, they will be allowed to take the exam in a separate room," said Dr Srinivas GA, Bengaluru District Health Officer.

In the Dharwad cluster, the cases were detected after carrying out 1,500 tests over the last three days. On Friday, 138 new cases from the same cluster were added to the previous tally of 66. The breakout started post-November 17 when the students, parents and staff of SDM Medical College participated in the Fresher's Day function at the function hall on the campus.

Assembly Speaker Vishweshwar Hegde Kageri on Friday said it was high time to prevail upon people to focus on duties and responsibilities towards the country. "Both performing duties and exercising rights need to go simultaneously. We need to introspect whether we have been able to implement the provisions of the statute in letter and spirit in the best interest of the common man," Kageri said while addressing the Constitution Day event organised by the Assembly Secretariat in coordination with the Upper House.

'Law of the land based on humanitarian values'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Davanagere

TERMING the Indian Constitution the "best in the world", Chief Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday said the laws framed, freedom, rights and duties provided by the Constitution to its citizens are better than what the British had.

Addressing the public after inaugurating the 'Constitution Day' programme by reading the preamble, he said the chairman of the Constitution Drafting Committee Dr BR Ambedkar wrote the Constitution after thorough observation of life. "The Constitution stands on the strong pillar of humanity which has united everyone. Humanitarian values are important for the development of any country," he said.

Bommai also said the Constitution has brought socio-economic justice, freedom of speech, tolerance among individuals and covered all aspects of life. "Democracy in our country is successful because of the sacrifice and conscientiousness of our people. It is also a base for uniting all people amid our diverse culture," he said. "In some countries, there is no provision for bringing amendments to the Constitution, but in our country, the Constitution is amended time and again as per need. All countries can become strong if people fulfil their duties."

He went on to praise Ambedkar as a "great humanitarian personality" who was influenced by Buddha and Basavanna, and in-depth studies of various texts. "It is apt to call Ambedkar the 'father of modern India'," he said.

Taking oath

Bommai read the oath as part of the 'Constitution Day', programme. The oath was taken by district in-charge minister Byrathi Basavaraj, MP GM Siddeshwara, CM's political secretary MP Renukacharya, Jagalur MLA SV Ramachandra, Davangere Mayor ST Veeresh, DHUDA chairman Devaramane Shivakumar and others.

Dharwad Industrial Area to be developed under BMIC

ENS@ Bengaluru

THE Union Government has approved the inclusion of development of Dharwad Industrial Area under the Bengaluru-Mumbai Industrial Corridor (BMIC). Dharwad in Karnataka and Satara in Maharashtra have been identified as the priority nodes under the project.

The Centre has approved 11 industrial corridors consisting of 32 projects to be developed in four phases. Spread over 6,000 acres, the Dharwad Industrial Area is well connected by road (NH 48 and 67) which connects it to Mumbai, Bengaluru and Goa. The existing railway station at Dharwad is located at a distance of 25 km from the site and the proposed Dharwad-Belagavi rail line is adjacent to the site. Hubbali airport is at a distance of 30 km while the nearest sea ports are at Karwar (170 km) and Goa (180 km).

"The proposed industrial development at Dharwad will augment the existing industrial development and create an investment destination for various categories of industries," stated a press release.

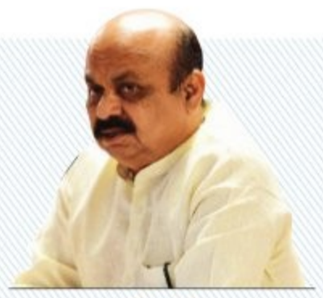
Relief for crop loss

On crop loss owing to the recent untimely rain across the state, Bommai said a survey to estimate the loss in each district is on. "Paddy and jowar in north Karnataka and ragi, paddy and vegetable crops in south Karnataka have borne the brunt. The Finance Secretary has been directed to release compensation within 24 hours of uploading the survey reports on the Parihara app," Bommai said, adding that his government will submit a memorandum to the Union Government seeking financial aid after compiling a comprehensive report.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Davanagere

CHIEF Minister Basavaraj Bommai on Friday said that the State Government will probe all projects tendered by previous governments, including the ones finalised during the Congress regime. He was reacting to a query by media persons about a Congress delegation meeting Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot and demanding President's Rule in Karnataka "over rampant corruption". Terming the complaint lodged by the Congress with Gehlot, demanding the dismissal of the State Government, as ridiculous, Bommai said, "Considering the Congress' special interest about percentage in tenders floated for civil works, those approved during their regime will also be probed," he added.

Hitting out at the opposition party, Bommai said its leaders were the creators of percentage (of kickbacks) culture. "A video clip of a conversation between two Congress leaders whispering about commission had recently gone viral. It was aired on television channels too. This clearly indicates that they started the 'commission menace'. They have increased it every time they came to power. All contractors are aware of this. The Congress submitting a memorandum to the Governor in a joke," Bommai thundered.



Considering the Congress' special interest about percentage in tenders floated for civil works, those approved during their regime will also be probed

Basavaraj Bommai, CM

The CM said the letter by the Karnataka State Contractors' Association, addressed to Prime Minister Narendra Modi, alleging rampant corruption lacks clarity and that development works have not been mentioned in it. "I have ordered a probe into their charges. Now, the Congress is showing interest in the issue. So, I will direct the chief secretary today to probe all tenders finalised by Congress-led governments in Karnataka."

Bommai said that it has been possible to expose the corrupt officials through the recent Anti-Corruption Bureau (ACB) raids and cleansing of the administration process has taken momentum. "It will continue," he added for good measure.

After Bommai directed the officials to examine tenders approved after he took over as the CM, Chief Secretary P Ravi Kumar on Friday asked Additional Chief Secretary to the Water Resources Department, Rakesh Singh, to look into it and submit a report. Kumar directed Singh to examine if there are any irregularities in tenders of over Rs 10 crore that were approved, and to immediately submit a report.

Citing allegations made by the contractors' association in its letter to the Prime Minister, Bommai had on Thursday directed the Chief Secretary to ask Additional Chief Secretaries and Principal Secretaries in Minor and Major Irrigation, Public Works Department, Panchayat Raj Engineering Department, Health Department and also the Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike to examine the allegations. "From the day I took charge as Chief Minister, all major works awarded in these departments have to be scrutinised and a detailed inquiry has to be held wherever any irregularities are noticed," Bommai had stated in his letter to Kumar.

Contractors' assn seeks independent investigation

ENS@ Bengaluru

A day after CM Basavaraj Bommai said that the State Government will look into allegations in tender process, the Karnataka State Contractors' Association said the truth will come out if an independent inquiry is conducted in a time-bound manner. "The truth will certainly come out if they (government) conduct an independent probe. We will also provide information," Association president D Kempanna said.

The government has directed the heads of the departments concerned to scrutinise tenders and take action if there are any irregularities. On Thursday, Bommai also stated that two committees, headed by retired judges, will also look into tender estimates and conditions.

Kempanna said they had raised several issues related to alleged corruption in awarding contracts in their letter to the PM. The association had also expressed concern over contractors from a neighbouring state being encouraged.

Gowda goes the extra mile to keep Vokkaliga vote base intact

DEVARAJ B HIREHALLI

JDS supremo H D Deve Gowda seems determined to hold on to every Vokkaliga vote in the old Mysuru region following a string of defeats for the party even in the community bastion since the 2019 Lok Sabha polls.

On Friday the 88-year-old patriarch, who hit the campaign trail for the December 10 Council polls in the Vokkaliga bastion of Tumakuru, called on the head of a Kunchitiga Vokkaliga Mutt, Sri Hanumanthanatha Swami, at Elerampura in Koratagere taluk. He covered the community's strong bastions — Koratagere, Madhugiri and Sira taluks — in a hectic 12-hour schedule.

Gowda had lost the 2019 Lok Sabha polls from Tumakuru as the BJP had managed to divide the Kunchitiga Vokkaliga community votes and won the seat. The saffron party continued its winning streak as Kunchitiga Vokkaliga leaders Dr C M Rajesh Gowda won the Sira bypolls and Chidananda Gowda won the Council seat from the South East Graduates' constituency.

For the upcoming Council polls in Tumakuru, the BJP has fielded N Lokesh, another Kunchitiga Vokkaliga leader. The JDS nominee Anil Kumar and Congress party's R Rajendra hail from ST Nayaka community. While Gowda is doing everything to keep the party afloat, second rung leaders want to avenge his 2019 defeat. Then, rebel Congress leader K N Rajanna had openly supported BJP candidate G S Basavaraju and helped him defeat Gowda. Now, since Rajanna's son Rajendra is in the fray, local JDS leaders want to pay him back in the same coin.

"Though running high fever, I had campaigned for Rajanna in the 2004 Assembly polls from the erstwhile Bellavi seat and ensured his victory as he was the JDS candidate," Gowda recalled. "The people may have let me down in 2019, but now they have a chance to lift my spirits by electing our party candidate in the Council polls," he hoped.

The JDS had also lost the Mandya Lok Sabha seat followed by the Assembly seats of K R Pet and Sira in the bypolls, all in the Vokkaliga stronghold. After the latest debacle in the Sindhagi and Hanagal bypolls, where the party has no base, the JDS has restricted itself to only six Council seats — Hassan, Mandya, Tumakuru, Mysuru-Chamarajanagar, Bengaluru Rural and Kolar. The party leadership withdrew H U Ishaq from the Kodagu seat where it has no base.

91 REMAIN IN FRAY FOR COUNCIL POLLS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

As many as 91 candidates, including 20 each from the national parties BJP and Congress, and six from the JDS remain in fray for the December 10 biennial polls for 25 seats in the Legislative Council from 20 local body constituencies. The last day for withdrawal of nominations was Friday. Scrutiny of nominations was held on Wednesday. In all, 121 candidates had filed their nomination papers.

On Friday, as many as 20 candidates, including H U Ishaq of the JDS from the Kodagu seat, withdrew their nominations. Lakhan Jarkiholi, younger brother of BJP leaders Ramesh and Balachandra, chose to remain in the fray as an Independent from Belagavi dual member seat where the BJP has fielded Mahantesh Kavatagimath as its official candidate. While there is speculation about whose votes he may cut into, Ramesh has maintained that his aim is to defeat Congress MLA Laxmi Hebbalkar's brother Channaraj Hattiholi.

In three of the dual member seats, the Congress and the BJP have played it safe by fielding single candidates. So, three each from both parties may get elected easily with no rebellion, no other strong contenders or JDS candidates in the fray.

In Dakshina Kannada, Social Welfare Minister Kota Srinivas Pujary and Congress' Manjunath Bhandari stand a chance to win as there are only three in the fray, including Ismail Shafi K of the SDPI. Similarly, in Dharwad, Pradeep Shettar, younger brother of former BJP chief minister Jagadish Shettar, and KPCC working president Saleem Ahmed of Congress may win. However, there are 10 candidates in the fray including, Alawar Shivakumar and Phakkiraddi Attigeri of the Janata Party.

The Vijayapura-Bagalakote dual member seat has Prahlada Hanumanthappa Pujary of the BJP and Congress' Sunilgouda Basanagouda Patil, younger brother of former minister M B Patil, in the fray. As many as eight candidates, including six independents, are in the fray.

Traffic hit as farmers block highways, demand law to guarantee MSP

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Mysuru

TRAFFIC was disrupted on the busy Mysuru-Bengaluru, Mysuru-Ooty and Chamarajanagar-Coimbatore highways as hundreds of farmers took to the streets to mark the first anniversary of the farmers' protest against the farm laws that were repealed recently by the Union Government. They also demanded a law to guarantee Minimum Support Price for their produce.

Motorists faced hardship as they had to take alternative roads to head towards Mysuru, Bengaluru and Gundlupet. The farmers, led by State Sugarcane Growers' Association president Kurbur Shanthakumar and Karnataka Raitha Sangha state president Badagalapura Nagendra, blocked a busy intersection near Bandipalya. The police diverted traffic via Gejjagalli towards Mysuru and Bengaluru-bound vehicles were diverted via KRS and Bannur-Malavalli. They also blocked the Mysuru-Bengaluru highway near Srirangapatna with bullock carts, cattle, tractors and tillers in response to the bandh call by the Samyuktha Kisan Morcha. Only ambulances were allowed to ply. The agitating farmers are also demanding a law assuring MSP, Rs 4,500 per tonne of sugarcane, arrears to cane growers and scientific price for paddy.

In Chamarajanagar, farmers staged a protest at Santhemarahalli Circle demanding that the Centre pay compensation to the kin of over 700 farmers who died in Delhi borders.

Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot enjoys the beauty of Jog Falls on Thursday

Jog Falls flows in glory briefly, but after Governor leaves

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Shivamogga

A badly timed attempt by the Karnataka Power Corporation Limited (KPCL) authorities to let Governor Thaawarchand Gehlot have a glimpse of the famed Jog Falls in all its glory went awry as the governor had left the place even before the excess water released could reach the waterfall. The sudden discharge of water, however, caught villagers downstream off guard. Gehlot arrived in Shivamogga on Wednesday and attended a few events in the city. Later, he headed to Jog Falls and stayed overnight at the Bombay Guest House near the waterfall. On Thursday morning, he visited Jog Falls to watch the water plunge from a height of over 830 feet. After spending some time enjoying the beauty of the cascade, he left the place around 8.30 am. In the meanwhile, KPTCL officials released over 200 cusecs of water from the Linganamakki dam around 6 am on Thursday, according to some reports. However, it takes about three hours for the water to reach the waterfall. The excess water reached only after the governor had left.

The unexpected release of water raised alarm among locals. Residents of Kargal Maralukore and Ambugalale vented their ire saying that the officials should alert people beforehand if they release excess water. The chief engineer (civil) of the Sharavathi Hydro Electric Project, Linganamakki, was not available for comment despite repeated calls and text messages.

HC not to interfere in change of land use

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court ruled that grant of conversion from agriculture to non-agricultural purposes by a deputy commissioner under the Land Reforms Act will not mean that change of land use under Section 14A of the Karnataka Town and Country Planning (KTCP) Act, 1961 is granted, deemed to be granted or automatically granted if the land still vests with the Planning Authority and comes within the Master Plan.

Justice M Nagaprasanna passed the order, declining to interfere with the communication issued by the Mandya Urban Development Authority (MUDA) to the Karnataka Rajya Mandavya Gruha Nirmana Sahakara Sangha.

In the communication dated September 13, 2019, MUDA had turned down the application of the petitioner for approval of the layout plan on the score that the land where the layout is sought to be formed will have to undergo a change of land use and directed the petitioner to seek change of land use under Section 14A of the KTCP Act.

After hearing both parties, the court said the stand of MUDA is that the portion of the land, which the petitioner is seeking to form a layout is agriculture and is part of the Master Plan, comes within the Planning Area as notified by MUDA. "Unless change of land use is granted under Section 14A of the KTCP Act, the approval for layout cannot be granted", the court said, noting that it is clear that MUDA cannot be faulted for issuing the communication.

Only 10 of 1,803 convicted in ACB cases

ENS @Bengaluru

WHILE the recent raids on corrupt government officials by the Anti-corruption Bureau (ACB) have exposed the ill-gotten wealth of the officials, the conviction rate in corruption cases seems to be paltry.

As per the numbers released by the anti-corruption agency, it has registered 1,803 cases since its inception in 2016. While most of the cases are under trial, the ACB has managed to get a conviction in 10 cases only. But the number of cases in which the accused was acquitted is 25, suggesting that the chances of corrupt officials getting off the hook are more than the chances of receiving punishment.

Among the 1,803 cases registered, chargesheets have been submitted in 753 cases while 682 cases are under trial. In these cases, 1,473 government staff, including 391 Class-I and above and people's representatives, were arrested. While 1,335 accused officials were suspended, departmental enquiry was conducted against 493 staff.

As many as 87 cases are stayed by courts, 106 cases are waiting to be charge-sheeted as the sanction for prosecution is pending. While previous approval required for enquiry/investigation is pending in 520 cases, the ACB has transferred two cases to the Central Bureau of Investigation (CBI) owing to lack of jurisdiction.

TN sees highest single-day rainfall

Red alert in coastal areas; 4 cm average rainfall, Kayalpattinam in Thoothukudi records 31 cm

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Tamil Nadu

WITH heavy rains battering Tamil Nadu, the State on Friday recorded 4cm of showers, the highest average rainfall received in TN in 24 hours in the last three years. With more rains in store, Indian Meteorological department issued a red alert for all coastal districts, including Chennai, for the next two days and an orange alert for the adjoining districts. As a result, several districts in coastal and south TN have announced a holiday for educational institutions on Saturday.

Thunderstorms with heavy to very heavy rain are expected over Tirunelveli, Thoothukudi, Tenkasi, Chennai, Tiruvallur, Kancheepuram and Chengalpattu districts. Thunderstorms with scattered heavy rain are expected over Kanniyakumari, Ramanathapuram, Tiruchy, Karur, Coimbatore and Nilgiris districts. Between October 1 and November 26, the State has received 58 cm of rain, 70 per cent more than the average rainfall received in this period. Chennai, Tiruvallur, Kancheepuram and Chengalpattu have received 60 per cent more rainfall than usual.

Northern TN, including Chennai, received just 2-4 cm of rain through Friday. Even this caused havoc in the capital, with waterlogging in several areas disrupting traffic. Several arterial roads were blocked as commuters were forced to take diversions to avoid potholes and waterlogged streets. T Nagar once again faced heavy inundation while in parts of KK Nagar, residents complained that sewage-mixed rain water had entered houses.

However, it was Thoothukudi that bore the brunt of the current weather system with Kayalpattinam in the district recording the highest rainfall with 31 cm in the 24 hours ending 8.30 am on Friday.

A yellow alert has been sounded by the IMD across the state -- except Kannur and Kasaragod districts -- warning isolated heavy rain on Saturday.

44 dead, 16 still missing after rain: AP CM

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Vijayawada

CHIEF Minister YS Jagan Mohan Reddy said unprecedented heavy rains in a short span of time had led to flooding and devastation in Nellore and three districts of Rayalaseema --Chittoor, Kadapa and Anantapur from November 16.

Making a statement on heavy rains and floods and resulting loss of life and property in the four districts, in the State Assembly on Friday, the Chief MInister said 44 people have lost life and 16 are missing in the heavy rains and floods that affected 1990 villages in 199 mandals of four districts. Lambasting the Opposition leader for criticising him for not visiting the flood affected areas, the Chief Minister said he had conducted an aerial survey and has been monitoring the situation and supervising the relief efforts. "What is more important? Immediate rescue and relief efforts in the flood affected areas? Or my visit to those places? As the first is most important, we have focused on it," he said.

'Will instruct BEOs to visit school'

PRIMARY and Secondary Education Minister BC Nagesh told TNIE that he will instruct the concerned block education officers to visit the school and get the power supply resumed.

Well-known historian Suresh Moona said that a structure gets the heritage tag when it is over 100 years old. But depending on the architecture, which is colonial in this case, even those buildings that are 75 years or older should get the tag. "They represent the spirit of old Bengaluru. Recently, the 120-year-old Fort High School was preserved using the latest technology. We can restore buildings without losing their antiquity. But for that one needs an inclination to preserve the heritage of the city," he commented.

IN A FIRST, K'TAKA MAY SOON GET STATE FROG

Bengaluru: If all goes well, Karnataka will soon have a state frog and become the first in the country to have one. Experts have suggested that the Malabar Tree Toad should get the honour as the species from the Western Ghats is endangered and was listed by the International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN). To make people better aware of the amphibian species, the Forest Department and experts will also host the first-ever frog festival, on the lines of Frog Rain in Borneo, in Sharavathi, Shivamogga taluk, on January 2022, soon after the Belagavi session. Principal Chief Conservator of Forests Sanjai Mohan told The New Indian Express that declaring a state frog will help in protecting the species. "It is high time we started thinking of smaller species. We are planning to host the frog festival along with a moth festival. Once the festival is held and the species finalised, it will be tabled before the state Wildlife Board for finalisation," he said.

Pangolin trade booms, bushmeat, parts popular

BOSKY KHANNA @Bengaluru

TWO species -- pangolins and sand boas – continue to be in great demand in wildlife markets. Despite researchers in China stating that pangolins caused the spread of Covid-19, since they were used in traditional medicines, poaching and illegal trade of the species has not come down.

Conservationists worry that both live and dead pangolins are in demand, and are a subject of great interest for poachers. According to records, every month at least one case is being reported in Karnataka, and officials say that many cases are going unnoticed.

CRIMES IN THE WILD PART 3

The scales, claws and skin have been in high demand as they are used in traditional medicines, and said to improve libido. Now, its bushmeat is also getting popular. "Cases of live seizure of pangolins are also coming to light. This also gives an indication that many are keen to rear the scheduled species in their homes as pets, which is a new worry. While agencies keep a watch on forest areas and dry grasslands, little attention is paid to hamlets where they are being reared," said a Wildlife Crime Control Bureau official.

The official added that in many incidents, intelligence information is shared with the forest department and police sleuths, but it has been noted that there is no follow-up. There is also no information on the total number of cases and their details.

Though pangolins are listed under the Wildlife Protection Act, Convention on International Trade in Endangered Species (CITES) and International Union for Conservation of Nature (IUCN), protection of the species is not taken seriously.

A wildlife legal expert stated that there are eight known species of pangolins, but a commoner does not know the difference among the species. "Thus, different species are crossing borders under different names and are not getting caught. The level of awareness among officials is limited, when compared to poachers, which they use to their advantage. The demand for monitor lizards and snake bile has come down after reduction in drug and rave parties, but the demand for pangolins to improve sexual libido continues."

Traders are now found to be taking greater risks by using different modes of transport to shift live and dead animals. The size of pangolins is also playing a greater role, and these finer details need to be closely tracked, added the expert.

2 held in raid on firm run by Chinese

BENGALURU: The Central Crime Branch (CCB) police have raided a financial firm allegedly run by Chinese nationals which gave loans at exorbitant processing fees and interest rates. The accused allegedly insulted the borrowers by sharing their loan details with their friends.

Two persons working at the firm have been arrested -- Kamaraj More (25), an HR executive, and Darshan Chowhan (21), a team lead. Police said they received credible information that bank accounts were being opened using credentials of those working in Licorise Technology Pvt Ltd located in Silver Spring Layout in Munnekolala near Marathahalli.

A case is registered in the Marathahalli police station under the Karnataka Money Lenders Act, IT Act, Karnataka Prohibition of Charging Exorbitant Interest Act, the Banning of Unregulated Deposit Schemes Act, and the IPC. ENS

Anti-CAA activists being arm-twisted?

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @Bengaluru

AMIDST discussions on intensifying the protests against the Citizenship (Amendment) Act in the backdrop of the Centre repealing the farm laws following intense protests by farmers, it has been alleged that authorities are sending "notices/chargesheets" to prominent activists in the state who took part in the protests last year against the controversial Bill.

While the authenticity of the notices could not be independently verified by this newspaper, the message is said to be "intimidating" in nature and it is alleged that, if the message is genuine, authorities are resorting to arm-twisting tactics.

One of the activists, who had played an important role in organising the protests against CAA, confirmed that a few of them had received the message, but refused to give out names.

A woman activist, Vasavi AR, however, confirmed that she had received the message, but refused to divulge its contents. "I am not sure whether it is authentic. I am in talks with my lawyers to decide the further course of action on the same," she said, adding that she can comment only after she ascertains the genuineness of the message she had received.

When The New Indian Express contacted noted historian Ramachandra Guha, he denied having received any such message.

Meanwhile, the city police have denied any knowledge about the "chargesheets" being issued via WhatsApp to the anti-CAA protesters in Bengaluru.

CRYPTO REGULATION SHOULD BE IN SYNC WITH GLOBAL POLICIES

The proposed bill on cryptocurrencies to be tabled in the Parliament session next week has sparked fears of the government banning it for good. Some are holding out hope that officials may instead allow select virtual currencies to operate and flourish under a sound regulatory regime. The Jayant Sinha-led Standing Committee on Finance too is against the ban and in favour of regulation. But if there's one authority that's unwavering, it's the RBI, which has been repeatedly voicing serious concerns from a macroeconomic and financial stability standpoint. It went one step ahead and banned private cryptos, but the Supreme Court struck it down last year. It's now down to the government whether to ban them or find a middle path to allow and regulate virtual currencies and in the process make some money via taxes.

Trouble is, there's no unanimity as to which asset class such an incredibly empowering technology belongs to. It's variously viewed as a security, commodity, property and currency. The classification is important as regulation and taxation policies apply accordingly and currently each country is writing its own nomenclature, complicating global regulation for the boundary-less and peer-to-peer nature of cryptocurrencies. While several central banks are at different stages of introducing their own digital currencies, they aren't strictly cryptos that allow borderless transactions ensuring anonymity.

If regulators see cryptos as undermining existing currencies, and how easily they can be used for money laundering and tax evasion, users see them as an alternative to fiat money. Firm believers argue that cryptos like bitcoin have roots in Austrian economic history and that private currencies are the ultimate answer to shrinking the growing size of the state, fighting inflation and avoiding undue surveillance of tax sleuths. While no country will hand over currency control to private entities, whichever view the government takes, it must be in harmony with others as outright bans could compel users to transact with overseas exchanges, even illegally, for regulatory arbitrage.

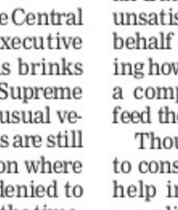
BATTLING GRAFT AND ITS ROOTS IN ODISHA

The Odisha government has been in a belligerent mood against the corrupt. Those with tainted backgrounds and compromised integrity are being dealt with an iron hand. Almost on a daily basis, the anti-corruption wing of the state government has been going after a big catch. One of the latest—which also made a huge splash—was a deputy manager of the Odisha State Police Housing and Welfare Corporation who was found to have amassed assets close to ₹15 crore. Pratap Kumar Samal's disproportionate assets were calculated at over 1,000% of the known sources of his income, one of the highest registered in the state. Starting his career as a junior engineer with the state PSU, Samal reached the deputy manager rank eight years ago. He and his kin had over ₹1.6 crore deposited in their bank accounts. The officer had so much cash stashed at his residence that he even tried to throw a bagful when the vigilance sleuths started the raid. The list of such cases has only got longer with the Naveen Patnaik government going after the corrupt. From those in the grassroot administrative positions to all India service officers, none is being spared. One of them was an Indian Forest Service officer Abhay Kant Pathak, who was arrested last year.

Naveen's zero tolerance to lack of integrity and efficiency has seen over 130 officers either handed out dismissal letters or sent on compulsory retirement. The crusade against the corrupt must not be compromised. But his government would also do well to go after corruption, and not just the corrupt. How can a deputy manager accumulate so much money without the system helping him? Or for that matter, take Pathak, who was in a key position in the forest department overseeing massive afforestation programmes of the state. How did he make over ₹9.35 crore during his career, of which he is alleged to have even spent a third on chartered flights in a single year, if he did not abuse his official position? That's where the state attack must focus. Corruption is a blight on the socio-economic development of a society. The potent option would be to address the cause of the disease and not just eliminate the symptoms.

The judiciary and the executive have a residual image of each other from various constitutional provisions. Conflict arises when the executive acts inconsistently with this picture

AN IMPORTANT RELATIONSHIP THAT IS UNDER STRAIN



K JAYAKUMAR

Former Kerala chief secretary and ex-VC of Thunchath Ezhuthachan Malayalam Varsity

AMIT BANDRE

An uneasy relationship between the judiciary and the executive does not augur well for a democracy. Arguably, it is the mandated role of the judiciary to review, revise or revoke any decisions of the government that are incompatible with the provisions and values of the Constitution. The courts striking down laws enacted by the legislature or annulling some provisions or reversing certain decisions of the government is nothing new. In fact, this judicial watchfulness is the sign of a healthy democracy that guarantees the unimpeachable rights of its citizens. Indisputably, Indian polity has immensely benefited from the continuous judicial interpretations of the Constitution. However, in recent times, this well-settled relationship seems to have been repeatedly challenged and the strain can no longer be hidden or ignored.

The manner in which the Central government has taken executive authority to its dangerous brinks has repeatedly forced the Supreme Court to interfere with unusual vehemence. Several instances are still in the memory of the nation where justice would have been denied to the needy if it were not for the timely reprimand of the apex court. The massive reverse migration of workers, trekking hundreds of kilometres, after the unplanned announcement of the lockdown in March 2020, had forced the court to interfere and prod the government to act. It also brought out not only the absence of statistics with the government but also its shocking lack of anticipation, planning, preparedness and even willingness to provide succour. When the government announced an ab initio flawed vaccine pricing policy that discriminated against the people, it was the Supreme Court that felt the shock waves and forced the Centre to retrace its steps and make the scheme more equitable. The same dynamics were repeated when a reluctant state was made liable to financially compensate the families who lost their dear ones to Covid-19. It was again the Supreme Court that directed the government to formulate a policy to take care of children orphaned by the pandemic. Recently, an irate apex court had to reject as unsatisfactory an affidavit filed on behalf of the government explaining how it was difficult to formulate a comprehensive programme to feed the needy and the hungry.

Though the court has the power to constitute expert committees to help in adjudicating technically complicated matters, it is an instrument that is sparingly used. When such disputes arise, the government would normally explain all the dimensions of the matter and the court would hear both parties at length and take a judicious view. However, when the government that is privy to all information and inputs turns reticent, it effectively makes judicial review difficult. It is then that the court invokes the option of constituting expert committees. This was demonstrated in the cases of the much castigated (and eventually withdrawn) farm laws and the Pegasus snooping allegation. Repeated straight questioning by the Supreme Court on whether the Centre has bought the Pegasus spyware has failed to elicit a clear answer. The court had then no alternative but to constitute a committee to help itself.

This running test of relative strength and authority between the Union government and the top judiciary has two immediate uncomfortable fallouts. One, this inadvertently conveys the lack of compassion and thoughtfulness on the part of the executive. Decisions that ought to have emanated naturally from an elected government to protect the welfare and well-being of its citizens appear to be taken as the unwilling afterthought and an inescapable response to the compulsive direction of the judiciary. Second, the frequent recurrence of such instances stretches the judiciary's powers to its imaginable limits, beyond which it could encounter its helplessness. Even the hints that constitutional remedies are getting exhausted are indeed ominous.

> Whenever the executive takes liberties with the innate values of the Constitution and trifles with the freedom and honour of the citizen, the judiciary will act with sternness. But such repeated acts do not augur well as ultimately, all the players come out weaker

It is not that the Constitution has not foreseen such conflicts, but there are times when the remedies provided become unequal to the challenges posed, as demonstrated in the stasis in several crucial matters. The constitutionality of reading down Article 370 and bifurcating Jammu and Kashmir is yet to be decided. Even in the Lakhimpur-Kheri case of homicide in public view, the court had to resort to a commission to enquire. Admittedly, it is not the judiciary that precipitates this situation. It is entirely the creation of the executive. What is the trigger for such instances leading to an uneasy coexistence? Both the judiciary and the executive have an ideal picture of each other, which is the residual image that comes out of the various provisions of the Constitution. Conflict arises when the executive acts inconsistently with this ideal. At all levels of decision-making, the executive ought to be constantly aware of how the courts would react to its decisions. When this caution and legal concern are brushed aside and the lofty ideals of the Constitution are grossly ignored by political exigencies, legally untenable acts of commission and omission are inevitable.

In the history of our Republic, such instances have been rare, though not entirely absent. However, at no time had such instances recurred with alarming frequency. Whenever the executive takes liberties with the innate values of the Constitution and trifles with the freedom and honour of the citizen, the judiciary will act, and act with sternness. But such repeated acts do not augur well as ultimately all the players come out weaker. The onus is on the part of the government to avoid this kind of tightrope tricks by constant reiteration of and commitment to not only the written provisions but also the abiding values and ideals enshrined in the Constitution. Knowing one's freedom to act is important, but it is equally important to know the limits.

THE DRAGON AT THE DOORS OF THE U.S.

KANDASWAMI SUBRAMANIAN

Served in the Ministry of Finance, GOI, and retired as Joint Secretary

We are not referring to China. The reference is to inflation knocking on the doors of the US. It is indeed disturbing as the dragon knocks three decades after Paul Volcker had driven it into the woods. During the interregnum, the Federal Reserve and other central banks secured their autonomy or independence and also polished their tools to better control the demon. Or so they thought. Sadly, the dragon is back from the wild and there are reports of disturbing price trends.

Consumer prices in the US have jumped in October at the fastest rate in three decades. The CPI published by the Bureau of Labor Statistics (BLS) on November 10 rose 6.2% in October from the earlier year—the fastest annual pace since 1990 and a sharp increase from the September level of 5.4%. A sure indicator to flash red lights in the Fed, which is mandated to maintain price stability and inflation at 2%.

What is more gnawing is that the price rise is across all sectors. The energy sector has queered the pitch with the energy index rising by 4.8% from September and the gasoline index by 6.1%. It is an increase that will hurt most American families. More than the actual price increase, it is the fear of the future rise that has gripped their psyche. As Bloomberg reported, "Key drivers like hot housing markets and a global energy crunch show few signs of fading away soon—leading economists to predict even bigger jumps in the coming months." It added the economy was at a "tipping point" with surging prices eating into the family budgets, wiping out the wage increases the workers got after battles and squeezing the profit margins of small traders.

American President Joe Biden is acutely conscious of the political fallout of rising inflation. He feels perhaps that energy costs are at the root of inflation and has accorded "top priority" to reducing that. He has directed the National Economic Council to pursue measures in this regard. Most importantly, his decision to give another term to Jerome Powell, a Trump appointee, is a sagacious move despite resentment among some Democrats. At a critical time when the Fed has to control inflation, he wants to ensure continuity. It will ensure easy bipartisan approval by the Senate.

The critical issue is whether the current inflationary rise is "temporary" or "persistent". There have been long debates on this and opinion is strongly divided. In his address delivered at the Economic Symposium at Jackson Hole on August 27, Powell took the view that inflationary pressures are "temporary"' ('Monetary Policy in the Time of Covid'). He did refer to the then prevailing rate of 4.2%, which was well above the 2% longer-run objective and was a cause for concern. However, he went on to soft-pedal it with the Fed rigamarole and added, "....that concern is tempered by a number of factors that suggest that these elevated readings are likely to prove temporary".

It is rather difficult to reconcile Powell's claim that inflation is transitory with its persistence over months. In a press conference following the meeting of FOMC, Powell said that "transitory" was a tricky thing to define.

On the other side, many economists refer to the rise in demand in the post-Covid months and the supply-demand mismatches. While the demand side may be explained in conventional terms, such as pent-up demand, rush for products after opening, etc., the supply-side issues are more complex. They are as much political as Covid-related.

Essentially, we refer to the disruption of supply chains that evolved during recent decades. These supply chains, mostly China-based, facilitated the smooth flow of products and components seamlessly. In a seminal paper, three economists of the B.I.S. (Bank for International Settlements) explained how global value chains (GVCs) play a valuable role in cross-border trade in intermediate goods and services, an important channel through which global economic slack influences domestic inflation ('The globalisation of inflation: the growing importance of global value chains'). It was observed that during the years of Asian rise, especially in China, the low-cost Asian trade acted as a buffer against inflation. Former Fed chair Alan Greenspan blamed China for exporting deflation to the US even as he took all the credit for maintaining price stability. When President Donald Trump started his trade-technology war against China, he tried to deconstruct the GVCs. He did not wholly succeed in his efforts. But he had done enough damage.

> Consumer prices in the US jumped in October at the fastest rate in three decades. What is more gnawing is that the price rise is across all sectors. ... If inflation persists in the US, there is risk of dollar appreciation with adverse consequences for emerging markets like India

The US paid the price for those wars through an accelerated rate of inflation. There are commodity shortages in big department stores like Macy's, Target, etc. Components that go into manufacturing are scarce or high-priced. The flexibility and the speed with which US companies used to adjust to monetary policies may be difficult to achieve. These have to be added to the adverse circumstances or dislocation caused by Covid. The long and short of this is that inflation will persist for a longer time.

Current inflation in the US is more structural and cannot be controlled by adjusting the interest rate. It needs a development policy to promote complementary sectors to bring about a greater balance. That perhaps was why 17 Nobel Laureates applauded Biden's infrastructure programme.

Getting back, the Fed has a daunting task ahead. The title of the summary of an IMF study put it succinctly, "Inflation scares in an uncharted recovery." As it added, when expectations are unanchored, inflation can quickly take off and be costly to rein back in. Currently, bond rates do indicate de-anchoring. Under such circumstances, the Fed is rudderless and cannot go by past data or relationships as former Fed chairs Greenspan or even Ben Bernanke did.

If inflation persists in the US, there is risk of dollar appreciation with adverse consequences for emerging markets like India. Studies by the Bank for International Settlements have shown that a stronger dollar is followed by weaker growth in emerging market economies and a higher risk of deeper economic downturns. It will dampen investment growth and exports. It can lead to competitive depreciation and destabilise the financial situation. For countries like India with high crude import, it will create balance of payments deficits. It is a scary scenario.

Powell is said to be the only non-economist to head the Fed. Though he stood up to the bullying by President Trump and maintained independence, many analysts doubt whether he can steer the central bank in choppy waters.

Wasting precious water

The news that Chennai has wasted the water supply of nearly two years in just 20 days is very sad (Nov 26). The report lays bare the callousness of the concerned authorities, resulting in huge amounts of rain water going to waste. It seems no lesson was learned after the 2015 deluge. The government needs to urgently take up desilting and deepening of lakes as well as removing encroachments on water bodies to ensure such wastage of the precious resource does not recur.

Interference from party

Kudos for the timely and exemplary editorial titled A party at odds with principles of democracy (Nov 26). Too much interference of party functionaries in the government may ultimately endanger the faith reposed by the citizens in democracy. The party zealots should take the editorial as a warning signal and mend their ways.

Communism is waning

It is undeniable that Communism is waning globally. In India, the Communists have been rooted out due to violence and corruption in Bengal. It is high time CM Pinarayi Vijayan reins in his partymen so that people's confidence in his government is restored.

Policy myopia in Kerala

Ignoring the opposition against Kerala's semi high-speed rail line and going ahead with the project would be disastrous for the LDF government (SilverLine: K-Rail refutes Sreedharan's charges, Nov 25). Even the metro man, E Sreedharan, an acclaimed authority on construction of rails and bridges, has slammed it as a great folly while the K-Rail MD has rubbished the charges. It is most unfortunate that our politicians are more interested in short-term grandstanding and political gains than being concerned about the long-term perils of such 'development' projects.

Adoption without consent

This is with reference to Happy ending: Anupama reunites with her child after a year-long struggle (Nov 25). It is indeed a happy ending for Anupama who got her son back after a year from Hyderabad-based foster parents. However, the mystery continues as to how a newborn child could be given for adoption without the mother's consent.

Motherhood is sacrosanct

A family court in Thiruvananthapuram has handed over the one-year-old baby back to its mother after a DNA test established the parenthood. No power in this country, be it religious, social, moral or political, has any right to separate a child from its mother. Parenthood, especially motherhood, is sacrosanct.

Time to end farm protest

The Central Cabinet's nod to repeal the farm laws shows that the government is intent on withdrawing the legislation. So, it is high time that the farmers desisted from their protest and the opposition parties stop backing the agitation. Instead of deriving political expediency from the farm laws, the Congress must act as a responsible opposition.

Leaders criticise Modi's family-party remark, say there is no bar on anyone to join any outfit

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE

OPPOSITION parties have reacted sharply to Prime Minister Narendra Modi's comment that family-based parties are doing the country no good.

They said constitutionally, there is no bar who becomes a member of a party. They also said that had voters not accepted them, leaders would have stood no chance of making their mark in a democracy.

Although Modi did not name any party in his remark during Constitution Day celebrations, it is assumed that among other, his comments were directed at Congress and SP, which have members of the same families in top positions.

Anand Sharma, Congress MP and Deputy Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha, said democracy in India is not in danger. "Had democracy been in danger, had Constitution not been respected, Modi could not have become the PM."

> Since Narendra Modi came to power, our economy, freedom of press and social harmony are in danger. Therefore, Sangh Pariwar is the real threat to our democracy than any family-based party
>
> Nawab Malik, NCP
>
> Akali Dal is a democratic party and has internal democracy as election are held to elect it's leadership. All leaders are from different backgrounds and not related to each other, besides being self-made
>
> Daljeet Singh Cheema, SAD

Trinamool Congress, which has Mamata Banerjee's nephew Abhishek in a leading role, also hit back at Modi. "His statement at such an event (Constituency Day) is unfortunate. He says dynasty politics. But the Constitution doesn't prevent anyone to be a flagbearer of his or her party," senior leader Sougata Roy said.

Abdul Hafiz Gandhi, spokesperson Samajwadi Party, said people have a right to choose. "It's the people who elect their representatives as per their choice. The real danger comes from parties dominated by individuals having dictatorial tendencies and no respect for the Constitution or the institutions created by or under the Constitution. BJP has weakened every constitutional institution."

Other parties also criticised the PM. "This remark is political balderdash. If anyone from the family of any politician joins politics and contests elections, it is the people who elect him or her, not the family he belongs to," said Chitranjan Gagan, general secretary and spokesperson of RJD, which has Lalu Prasad Yadav's son Tejwashi as spearhead.

Gagan said had RJD been a family-based party, its state president would not have been someone who is not related the Yadavs.

Daljeet Singh Cheema, senior leader and spokesman of Shiromani Akali Dal which has the Badals in prominent positions for years, said: "Sukhbir Singh Badal is the 20th president of the party. Before him, Parkash Singh Badal was the president. All the other 18 presidents were not related to the Badal family. Akali Dal has internal democracy. Elections are held to elect its leadership."

Congress-TMC tussle could play out in Parliament session too

RICHA SHARMA @ New Delhi

THE fissures between Congress and TMC over poaching may impact Opposition unity during the winter session of Parliament. The TMC led by Mamata Banerjee is looking at a bigger role in floor coordination with other parties and attacking the Centre, something the Congress took the lead in doing during the previous Parliament session.

Indications of a possible breach in Opposition unity were visible at the Congress party's call to boycott the Constitutional Day event at Parliament House on Friday. Congress said 14 parties boycotted the event after Leader of Opposition in Rajya Sabha Mallikarjun Kharge reached out to them Thursday. TMC took a different stand that it skipped the function because none of their MPs were in Delhi. "This is our official stand. But why should we let Congress take the credit as it is going to town saying that it was on its call that the Opposition decided to boycott the event," said a TMC MP, adding that the party won't follow the Congress floor strategy.

Deputy Leader of Congress in Rajya Sabha, Anand Sharma said the party believes in taking everyone along. In Rajya Sabha, Congress is the largest Opposition party with 34 MPs. TMC with 13 is the second largest.

Some Opposition leaders feel differences between the two parties could play out during the session with TMC going all out to take on the Centre over issues related to farmers, inflation and others. "We have to wait and see. In the past, TMC has skipped a few joint Opposition meetings called by Congress in Parliament," said a Left party MP in Rajya Sabha.

Rajya Sabha MP Binoy Viswam, Leader of CPI Parliamentary Party, called for a united Opposition to take on the Centre. "The winter session where the government has listed 26 bills but is silent on MSP, is crucial. Major Opposition parties like Congress and TMC should come out of narrow partisanship to put up a combined resistance. The Left would strive for purposeful unity against anti-people BJP."

During a Congress Parliamentary Party strategy meeting chaired by Sonia Gandhi on Thursday, Kharge, Sharma and Congress chief whip in Rajya Sabha Jairam Ramesh were asked to coordinate with Opposition parties for unity. Sharma shares good rapport with Mamata. They worked together in Congress in the 80s when Sharma was Youth Congress president and Mamata was the general secretary.

"It is mayhem there," Sibal told the bench and was assured by the bench that an urgent hearing will be held after discussion with other judges.

'Not right to doubt process of vaccination'

The Supreme Court on Friday said it cannot send a wrong message on Covid-19 vaccination and emphasised that the WHO has also spoken in favour of the vaccines. Justices DY Chandrachud and AS Bopanna said, "We cannot send a message that there is some problem with the vaccination." Citing monthly progress reports, Justice Chandrachud said at this juncture, it is not correct to doubt the process. He added the court has to see the good of the nation as a whole.

DECORATED COP UNDER NIA SCANNER

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ New Delhi

A senior cop, who is also a gallantry award winner, is being investigated by the National Investigation Agency (NIA) for allegedly leaking sensitive information to a human rights activist booked under the Unlawful Activities Prevention Act (UAPA).

Arvind Digvijay Negi, who investigated several terror-related cases while on deputation to the NIA, is the officer whose records are looked into by the probe agency, sources said. They said a tip-off about the police officer came from Intelligence Bureau (IB).

Negi recently sought repatriation from NIA on personal grounds. Sources said he is investigated on multiple charges including espionage, extortion and violation of the Official Secrets Act. His premises in Himachal Pradesh's Kinnaur were one of the three places raided by NIA on Monday. The other two were in Srinagar — residence and office of Khurram Parvez.

Negi was part of the probe team that carried out searches at Parvez's residence in October 2020 as part of the NGO-terror funding case. No arrests were made then. An SP-rank officer, Negi was awarded the Police Medal for meritorious service after investigating the Hurriyat terror funding case.

Promoted to the IPS in 2016, Negi was repatriated to his cadre after completion of 11 years and three months of deputation to the NIA — one of the longest tenures in the anti-terror probe agency since its inception following the terror attack in Mumbai in 2008.

Negi has probed fake currency and IS recruitment cases during his stint at NIA. He was also instrumental in cracking the MBBS admission scam in Himachal.

The other high-profile cases Negi was part of was the Davinder Singh case and arrest of Peoples Democratic Party (PDP) leader Waheed Para and cross-border/Line of Control (LoC) trade case.

The NIA is tight-lipped on the matter, not confirming or denying the role of Negi. Sources said, "He may not be the only one under scanner. Others in the team may be questioned, including another senior officer who is no longer part of the probe agency.

PROTEST ANNIVERSARY

Octogenarian who inspired others to stay put at Singhu for whole year

GAYATHRI MANI @ New Delhi

DEFYING police deployment, barricades and water cannons, thousands of farmers entered the national capital on November 26 last year and began their protests against the Centre's farm laws. In the last 12 months, several of them left the site to be with their families or to get back to work. Most of them joined the protests in alternate batches.

However, there are a few octogenarians who did not leave the place even for a second. They have been at the protest site for 365 days with full spirit and enthusiasm. Winter, summer, rains, Covid and opposition from the establishment, nothing deterred them.

Nishtar Singh Grewal (86)

He survived lathi charge, heat and cold waves and even had a bout of Covid during which he was on oxygen. But this old man from Ludhiana did not leave the site even for a day to see his wife and children. Rather, he had become a popular figure for the massage service he provided to fellow farmers.

"I was 85 when I came here and now I have turned 86. I am not out! In the last year, I saw the worst of days. There was no toilet and water, but I did not lose hope and spirit. Me and my son travelled daily to Kurukshetra to get milk to make tea for the farmers. Later, youngsters from Haryana and Punjab came forward and helped us. Many left and came back after two or six months but I decided that I will not leave this place until the government repeals the farms laws," says Nishtar, who owns 1.6 acres where he grows rice and wheat.

Thousands of farmers crowd Delhi borders

Thousands of farmers from Punjab, Haryana and Uttar Pradesh on Friday gathered in large numbers at the three Delhi border points of Singhu, Ghazipur and Tikri to mark one year of protests. Farmer unions said the day will be remembered forever in history as one of the greatest moments of people's struggle.

Gurdev Singh (70)

He is also staying put at Singhu border since the first day of protests. Breaking into tears, he said, "It (repealing laws) is a victory for us, especially for farmers who have small pieces of land. For a full year, it was a war for us. They called us Khalistani, Pakistani terrorists, Naxalites. Did not see that our sons and daughters are fighting for the nation at the borders."

Gurdev is moved by the warmth of the locals. "Watching our sacrifice, residents and shopkeepers came forward to help. But actors like Kangana Ranaut should be punished for saying that Sikhs should be crushed under the shoes like mosquitoes. We are citizens of this country and true Indians," said the man from Jalandhar.

Sadhu Singh Kacharwal (63)

His tractor was the first to enter the national capital. He also got injured in laathi charge. "I am still here and so is my tractor. We turned it into a room by covering it with sheets. We struggled for one year without meeting our family and children. It is good that Modi finally realised that farmers are fighting for the right cause. But there are other demands. Until all these demands are met, our protest will continue."

Envoy summoned, Pak asked to speed up 26/11 terror trial

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

INDIA on Friday summoned a senior official from Pakistan High Commission in New Delhi and handed over a note, reiterating that the trial in the Mumbai terror attacks case should be expedited.

The Ministry of External Affairs also asked Pakistan to abide by its commitment to not let its territory to be used for terrorist acts against India.

"It is a matter of deep anguish that even after 13 years of this heinous terror attack, the families of 166 victims from 15 countries across the globe still await closure, with Pakistan showing little sincerity in bringing the perpetrators to justice," the ministry said in the note.

Paying homage to those killed on November 26, 2008, in Mumbai, Prime Minister Narendra Modi said India cannot forget them. "I pay homage to all those who died. Many brave police personnel were also martyred in the strike. I also pay homage to them. India cannot forget the wounds of the Mumbai attack. Today's India is combating terrorism with a new policy and new ways," he said.

This comes on the 13th anniversary of the day when a group of 10 Pakistani terrorists carried out coordinated attacks in different points in Mumbai. India also paid homage to people from other countries who lost their lives.

"Indian Missions in these countries are organising memorial events remembering the victims, reminding the world of the global threat of terrorism. Representatives from the host governments, family members of victims and survivors will participate in these events," the ministry said.

The MEA said that despite the Pakistan Prime Minister admitting that terrorists were from the country, they have not done anything. "The 26/11 terrorist attack was planned, executed and launched from Pakistani territory. The former Prime Minister of Pakistan had admitted that. We once again call on the government of Pakistan to give up double standards and to expeditiously bring the perpetrators of the horrific attack to justice," it said.

Assam, Mizoram to form panel for solving border row

Decision was arrived at a meeting that Union Home Minister Amit Shah had with the chief ministers of the two Northeast states in Delhi

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Guwahati

THE governments of Assam and Mizoram on Friday decided to constitute committees and hold talks, including at the level of chief minister for resolving their boundary disputes.

The decision was made at a meeting that Union Home Minister Amit Shah had with Assam Chief Minister Himanta Biswa Sarma and his Mizoram counterpart Zoramthanga in New Delhi.

"Heartening to share that I along with Mizoram CM Zoramthanga met Home Minister Amit Shah this evening in New Delhi. We reaffirmed our resolve to maintain peace and tranquillity at our borders," Sarma tweeted.

It was decided that both states would constitute committees and try to resolve the disputes through discussions, he said."Towards this end, the chief minister's-level talks will also take place from time to time. We're grateful to the Union Home Minister for his kind guidance and support."

In a show of bonhomie, the two CMs dined together on Thursday night at the Assam House."Happy to share that Mizoram CM accepted my dinner invite at Assam House, Delhi. We had a nice dinner and lively evening. It's always so heartening to have his gracious company. My colleague Atul Bora joined us," Sarma had tweeted earlier in the day.

Zoramthanga reciprocated by thanking Sarma for the reception. "Cordial discussions on various developmental topics for the welfare of Northeast India were held. Looking forward to many more progressive meetings," he tweeted.

The two CMs had a war of words on Twitter in July when five Assam policemen died and dozens others, including a superintendent of police, were injured in police firing during a border skirmish. Normalcy was restored at the Centre's intervention. Ever since then, the Centre has been closely monitoring the border situation.

'Punjab CM is rubber stamp due to party in charge'

HARPREET BAJWA @ Chandigarh

FORMER Punjab CM Amarinder Singh lashed out at Congress state in charge Harish Chaudhary over his accusations of being hand in glove with PM Narendra Modi and the BJP when he was leading the state.

Amarinder said that although he owed no explanation to an out of job legislator who was sacked as a minister in Rajasthan for being named as an accused in a Barmer murder case which was handed over to the CBI, he still wanted to set the record straight.

"Had I had any understanding with the PM or the BJP when I was the Chief Minister, I would not have supported the farm agitation and demanded repealing of the agriculture laws and passed law against them in the Vidhan Sabha."

As the Chief Minister and Home Minister, Amarinder said, he was supposed to meet the PM and the Union Home Minister and so were his ministers. "Even your new CM has met the PM and the HM and from your senseless logic then he should also be having an understanding with the BJP and waiting to be sacked," he taunted Chaudhary.

It was for the first time that a party in-charge made the state as his permanent abode, he said. "I have worked with 14 party in charges like Pranab Mukherjee, Mohsina Kidwai, Janaradhan Dwivedi, and they would rarely interfere, leave aside visiting or settling down."

A party in charge is not supposed to settle down in the state he is assigned but to facilitate interaction and feedback to the high command, Amarinder said. "Chaudhary is enjoying chief ministerial power and privileges in Punjab, turning the CM into a rubber stamp."

Ex-Mumbai top cop faces 7-hr grilling

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Mumbai

FORMER Mumbai Police commissioner Param Bir Singh appeared before a court as well as recorded his statement in neighbouring Thane city in connection with an extortion case.

The case was registered against Singh and 28 others on the complaint lodged by builder and alleged bookie Ketan Tanna in July. As per the complaint, when Singh was the Thane commissioner between 2018 and 2019, he and other accused extorted ₹1.25 crore from Tanna and ₹3 crore from Tanna's friend Sonu Jalan.

Singh faces six cases of corruption and extortion lodged at various police stations of Maharashtra.

On Friday, Singh appeared before the Thane Nagar police station in connection with another extortion case. The crime branch grilled him for seven hours and did his cross-examinations in the case.

The senior IPS officer, who was recently declared an absconder by a court, had arrived in Mumbai on Thursday after remaining untraceable for over six months. The Supreme Court had granted Singh protection from arrest a few days ago.

CBI gets nod to sanction retd HC judge for graft

NEW DELHI: The CBI has got the sanction to prosecute a retired Allahabad High Court judge in a corruption case for allegedly favouring a private medical college in his orders.

The federal agency had applied for a go ahead from the Centre to prosecute the retired judge S N Shukla on April 16, in accordance with the Prevention of Corruption Act.

With the government now giving its nod, the CBI can proceed with a charge sheet against the retired judge.

Besides Shukla of the Lucknow bench of the Allahabad High Court, the agency had also named retired Chhattisgarh High Court judge I M Quddusi, Bhagwan Prasad Yadav and Palash Yadav of the Prasad Education Trust, the trust itself and private persons Bhavna Pandey and Sudhir Giri in the FIR, officials said.

The CBI does not need sanction to prosecute Quddusi as he was a retired judge at the time of the alleged offence and acting in the capacity of a private person. Shukla joined the Allahabad HC on October 5, 2005 and retired on July 17, 2020

The judge had allegedly defied the categorical restraint orders passed by an apex court bench led by the chief justice of India to permit private colleges to admit students for the 2017-18 academic session.

Then CJI Dipak Misra had taken note and constituted a three-member in-house committee to look into the allegations. The committee had concluded there was sufficient substance in the allegations contained in the complaint against Justice Shukla and that the aberrations were serious enough to call for initiation of proceedings for his removal.

After getting the report, Justice Misra in 2018 had asked Shukla to resign or seek voluntary retirement but he refused to do so following which judicial work was taken away from him. Later, then CJI Ranjan Gogoi seeking permission to start his judicial work. But CJI Gogoi then wrote to the prime minister to remove the tainted judge. PTI

Change in Maha BJP, Fadnavis wing to be clipped

SUDHIR SURYAWANSHI @ Mumbai

IN view of the upcoming Brihanmumbai Municipal Corporation election and the recent setbacks in local body polls, BJP's central leadership has planned major organisational changes in the party's Maharashtra unit.

According to BJP insiders, Devendra Fadnavis's wings are set to be clipped. The party brass has elevated his rival Vinod Tawde as national general secretary.

"Tawde, who was systematically sidelined by Fadnavis during his rule, has been given a fresh lease of life by the central leadership. Fadnavis had even denied him a ticket in the 2019 assembly elections. Tawde was all set to leave (the party) due to the humiliation, but finally decided to stay. His patience has paid of. It also shows that the process of downsizing Fadnavis has started," said a senior BJP leader.

Another of the former CM's bête noir, Chandrashekhar Bawankule, has been rehabilitated with the party nominating him for Legislative Council polls.

The leader added that Fadnavis had been given a long rope by Prime Minister Narendra Modi and Union Home Minister Amit Shah, but now time had come to repair the damage.

There are also talks in the party about state BJP president Chandrakant Patil likely being replaced with a close confidant of Shah. Sources said Ashish Shelar had already given hints of his appointment to a major post. He was asked to tour the state and meet various sections of society and prominent BJP leaders as well.

"BJP leadership is worried about the party's future in Maharashtra. The state sends 48 members to Parliament, the highest after Uttar Pradesh. The party cannot afford to ignore Maharashtra looking at the 2024 Lok Sabha polls and increasing anti-BJP sentiments due to inflation and other issues," the leader said. Shah is personally consulting all prominent state leaders before making changes, he added.

BJP EYES 51% VOTE SHARE IN MP POLLS

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

THE ruling BJP has set a target of securing over 51% vote share for emerging triumphant in the 2023 elections in Madhya Pradesh. To achieve this, the party is going to assign booth-levels worker a specific goal.

"All party workers in the state are being assigned one common task in the next year — to increase the party's vote by 10-11% at every polling booth in the state," state BJP president V D Sharma said while addressing the day-long state executive meeting of the party in Bhopal on Friday. "Not only will we have to work in a focused manner to increase the party's vote at every polling booth by 10-11%, but the ultimate goal will be to ensure 51%-plus vote share for the party in the 2023 assembly polls, to ensure that the party emerges as a clear winner in the next polls."

In 2018, the BJP was ousted from power in MP after a 15-year rule despite having secured marginally more votes than the Congress. While the BJP won 109 seats with 41.02% votes, the Congress won five seats more (114) even though its vote share was slightly less, 40.89%. The Congress government, however, collapsed as many disgruntled legislators defected to the BJP.

The meeting was attended by Chief Minister Shivraj Singh Chouhan, Union ministers Narendra Singh Tomar, Jyotiraditya Scindia and Prahlad Patel, national general secretary in-charge for MP Murlidhar Rao, joint in-charge for the state Pankaja Munde, national general secretary and ex-MP minister Kailash Vijayvargiya among others.

The two passengers were scheduled to travel to Sharjah. Examination of their baggage yielded US Dollars and Saudi Dirhams worth ₹3.7 crore. The duo had no documents for the illicit possession or for legal export of the foreign currency.

Raje on roll, BJP rivals turn to Shah for checking ex-Raj CM

RAJESH ASNANI @ Jaipur

AMIDST BJP leader Vasundhara Raje's ongoing show of strength, her rivals in the Rajasthan party unit plan to bring Union Home Minister Amit Shah to address a workers meet in Jaipur on December 5.

Shah's visit is being seen as an exercise by the rival faction to neutralise the impact of the Raje Yatra.

The Ajmer division was the last junction of Raje's 'Dev Darshan' religious tour on Friday. Here the former CM visited the Brahma temple where the seers presented her with shawls and swords and blessed her. Raje did not say anything during the Pushkar Yatra but through her supporters, she showcased her strength. After worshipping at the Brahma temple, Raje also visited the Ajmer Dargah in the evening. Raje said she prayed for peace to the souls and strength of their families who lost lives in the pandemic.

The enthusiasm of Raje's supporters is at its peak. Their motive is to showcase that Raje is still the BJP's only popular face in Rajasthan and that she be projected as the CM face in 2023. Although Raje is calling her yatra non-political, she is addressing public meetings to give political messages.

In Bhilwara, she took a dig at the Congress government in the state. "After two years, our government will come again. Only with the blessings of saints and the people can we move forward and form the government in 2024 with a thumping majority. ... There are two more years left and this is the time of our examination for which we all have to be successful together."

Raje's main opponent and BJP state president Satish Poonia refused to comment on Raje's visit. "It is her visit, it is not right to comment on her religious visit."

After the party's crushing defeat in the recent bypoll, the RSS camp in the BJP has started preparing with Shah coming to Jaipur on December 5 to address the State Working Committee meeting. He will also address a public representatives conference to boost the morale of BJP workers.

Rajbhar hopeful of SP-AIMIM alliance

NAMITA BAJPAI @ Lucknow

SUHELDEV Bharatiya Samaj Party (SBSP) chief OP Rajbhar has hinted that All India Majlis-e-Ittehad-ul-Muslimeen (AIMIM) could be welcomed in an alliance led by the Samajwadi Party but with certain riders for the Uttar Pradesh poll.

AIMIM chief Asaduddin Owaisi, on his part, recently announced to contest 100 seats with smaller outfits in the northern state.

An alliance of SP-AIMIM was possible only if Owaisi was ready to climb down on the number of seats, the SBSP chief said. "The AIMIM chief needs to scale down his demand for seats. If he is ready to contest on just 5 to 10 seats, the SP alliance is open to him," Rajbhar said. "It will be better to fight 10 seats, rather than a hundred. Contest from 100 and lose 100...or contest from 10 and win all 10."

Recently, Uttar Pradesh CM Yogi Adityanath had hinted at a tacit understanding between SP chief Akhilesh Yadav and Owaisi. But, Akhilesh has been making it amply clear that his party has no interest either in Owaisi or in his party.

When pressed by the media that Akhilesh was not interested in AIMIM, Rajbhar claimed that he was asked by the SP chief to explore alliance possibilities with AIMIM. "Akhilesh Yadav has never spoken against Owaisi and I am in constant touch with the AIMIM chief."

Sources in AIMIM, meanwhile, denied any talks going on between Rajbhar and Owaisi in connection with an alliance.

An unfazed Rajbhar stuck to his offer. "Once I am with the Samajwadi Party, my effort to bring other smaller parties including AIMIM onboard will continue."

Interestingly, the AIMIM earlier was a part of the Bhagedari Sankalp Morcha —an umbrella organization of 10 smaller parties — led by Rajbhar who went on to join hands with Akhilesh. The SBSP's decision to break away from the grouping was a setback to Owaisi who was trying to stitch together an alliance of non-BJP parties.

French fishermen block ferries bound for UK

Tensions rise over dozens of post-Brexit fishing licences that Paris says London is yet to grant

Perilous migrant route to Britain

Undeterred by worsening weather, the number of attempts by migrants to cross the English Channel has doubled over the past three months

OVERLOADED BOATS

The crossings often take place in overloaded rickety boats. Wednesday's tragedy happened on an inflatable of the type used increasingly by traffickers since June

Weather conditions are often difficult, with boats having to weave in between 600 ships a day through banks of fog as well as storms

€2,000
per passenger, with prices dropping as traffickers get more organised

1,500 traffickers arrested by France since the start of the year. French Interior said they work like mafia organisations in highly organised crime groups using encrypted telephones

THREE-FOLD RISE
At least 25,700 have succeeded in making the journey in first 11 months of the year, Britain says, almost three times last year's number

CALAIS

FRENCH fishing crews temporarily blocked French ports and ferry traffic across the English Channel on Friday to disrupt the flow of goods to the UK, a symbolic riposte in a dispute over post-Brexit fishing licenses.

It's the latest tension point between the neighbouring countries, who are also trading blame for not doing enough to prevent the deaths of at least 27 migrants whose boat sank on Wednesday off Calais, in the choppy waters of the world's busiest shipping route.

French fishermen are angry at the British government for not granting more licenses to fish in UK waters — and angry at their own government for not doing more to defend them. The fishing industry is economically tiny but symbolically important for both Britain and France.

Last week in Brittany, French Sea Minister Annick Girardin announced that she was working on a compensation plan for fishermen who fail to obtain a license and who would have to cease their activity. But it left the French fisheries committees cold.

Friday's blockades are "a warning shot," Olivier Lepretre, president of the regional fishing committee, told reporters in Calais.

"The British have access to the European market, while we do not have access to British waters. This is not normal, the British government must respect the agreement."

Fishing crews blocked access to the port of Saint-Malo from 9 am to 10 am, but that blockade, now over, has passed the relay to Calais and Ouistreham, where the protest is continuing. Meanwhile, protesters are gearing up Friday afternoon to block access to the freight terminal of the Channel Tunnel, the highway leading from France to Britain. In the port of Calais, a blockade of ferries began at noon, stopping ferries that provide links with the UK. Six fishing boats from the port of Boulogne-sur-Mer blocked access to the Calais port, in a short but impactful 90-minute operation.

"This is a symbolic action but if it continues we will show more teeth," Lepretre added, in quotes given to French media.

Before Brexit, French fishermen could fish deep inside British waters. Now they need to be granted a special license from British authorities to fish in certain areas. Most French boats have received the special licenses. Now the dispute boils down to just a few dozen French licenses that have not been granted by the UK.

The fishers are protesting to "respond to the derisive and humiliating attitude of the English," Gerard Romiti, president of the French fishing committee, told reporters. AP

Macron furious after Johnson makes letter on tragedy public

PARIS

FRANCE on Friday scrapped planned talks with the UK about migrant crossings after an "unacceptable" letter from British Prime Minister Boris Johnson, pushing relations to new lows after 27 people died in the Channel.

The anger in Paris was sparked by Johnson's decision to send a letter to Macron on Thursday evening proposing ways to stop migrants crossing from France to Britain, then publishing it in full on his Twitter account.

"I am surprised by methods when they are not serious. One leader does not communicate with another on these questions on Twitter, by public letter... No, No," Macron told a press conference in Rome. Relations between the two neighbours were already seen as their most tense in decades following a series of disputes over Brexit, but the personal criticism of Johnson represents a further turn for the worse.

French Interior Minister Gerald Darmanin cancelled planned talks with his British counterpart Priti Patel, informing her that she was no longer invited to talks at the weekend with other European ministers. In a message seen by AFP, Darmanin told Patel the letter was a "disappointment" and "making it public made it even worse". Meanwhile, Johnson said he does not regret publishing the letter. AFP

Ukraine president says coup plot backed by Russian govt uncovered

KIEV

UKRAINE'S President Volodymyr Zelensky said Friday that Russia was sending "very dangerous" signals with troop movements on the border, warning that his military was ready to push back any offensive.

He also claimed Kiev had uncovered a coup plot involving Russian citizens.

"We believe that very dangerous rhetoric is coming out of Russia," Zelensky told a wide-ranging press conference in Kiev. "It is a signal that there could be escalation," he said.

V Zelensky

Zelensky said Ukraine was ready to take on Russia if Moscow decides to move troops across the border.

He said Kiev had information on "representatives of Russia" trying to involve influential Ukrainian oligarch Rinat Akhmetov in a coup plot. He said Ukraine had an audio recording as evidence of the plot, with Russians "discussing" Akhmetov's role in the coup "for a billion dollars."

He said it was planned for early December with the aim of "rocking the situation inside our country."

Asked about the claims, the Kremlin said "Russia never does such activities."

This week Kiev warned Moscow that it would "pay dearly" for any aggression against it. Putin has meanwhile raised concerns over US-led military exercises in the Black Sea — a sensitive region for Russia, which controls the Crimea peninsula since annexing it from Kiev.

He has also criticised Kiev for using a Turkish-made drone against separatists, saying the move violated peace agreements.

In a phone call with European Council President Charles Michel on Wednesday, Putin said he was concerned that "provocations" by Kiev would inflame tensions in eastern Ukraine. He also pointed out "the need to end Kiev's policy of discriminating against the Russian-speaking population".

The Ukrainian army was caught off guard by Russia's annexation of Crimea but its soldiers have since accumulated combat experience and received arms and hardware from Western allies, particularly the United States which has committed $2.5 billion in support of Ukraine's forces. AFP

Shots fired at police amid anti-jab protests in French Caribbean

LE LAMENTIN

TEN police officers were injured and several journalists shot at on the French Caribbean island of Martinique overnight on Thursday to Friday as protests sparked by Covid-19 vaccine measures spread.

Fresh violence was reported on the territory despite a night curfew, following more than a week of unrest on the nearby French island of Guadeloupe.

Five police officers were injured by gunfire on Martinique and five others by objects thrown at them during operations, according to police figures sent to AFP.

French government spokesman Gabriel Attal called the unrest "totally unacceptable" and promised "firmness" in dealing with the rioters.

Four journalists, including an AFP photographer, were shot at by men on a motorbike late on Thursday as they worked in the main Martinique town of Fort-de-France. None was injured.

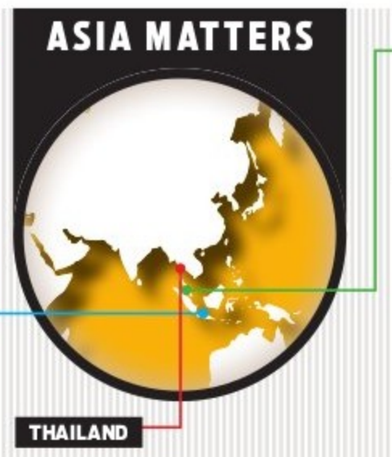
The protests on Guadeloupe were started by hardline opponents of compulsory vaccination for health workers and fire fighters on the island — a measure already implemented in mainland France. The protests, which saw barricades set up on roads, have since morphed into a larger movement to express frustration at alleged neglect of the islands by Paris. The territories are popular with moneyed tourists, but poverty levels and unemployment for locals are far higher than in mainland France, leading to long-standing grievances.

Vaccination rates in the territories also trail those on the mainland with less than half the population jabbed against Covid on Guadeloupe.

A strict night curfew was announced for Martinique on Thursday, mirroring a similar measure in place in Guadeloupe since November 19.

Hundreds of police reinforcements have also been sent to the islands. AFP

ASIA MATTERS



INDONESIA

Concerns rise as pace of vaccination drops

Indonesia has significantly recovered from a mid-year spike in coronavirus cases and deaths that was one of the worst in the region, but with its vaccination drive stalling due to logistical challenges and other issues, and with holidays approaching, experts and officials warn the island nation could soon face another surge. Indonesia started its vaccination rollout earlier than any other country in Southeast Asia on Jan. 13, and as infection and death rates soared in July and August, ramped up its programme to more than 1 million shots per day. But as the world's fourth most populous nation it had a lot more work to do than most, and today is only 33% fully vaccinated and 16% partially, far behind Malaysia, which boasts 76% fully vaccinated, according to Our World in Data

Rapper warned of state-sponsored hack

A Thai rapper vowed not to be silenced on Thursday after he and at least five other government critics received messages from Apple warning that state-sponsored hackers could be targeting their phones. The US tech giant warned the Thai activists that, if successful, the hackers could remotely access their data and even the camera and microphone on their iPhones. The warnings came as Apple sued NSO Group, the Israeli spyware maker of the Pegasus, seeking to block it from targeting iPhones

SINGAPORE

Quarantine-free travel for more countries

Singapore will extend quarantine-free vaccinated travel lanes to six more countries from next month, in a bid to rebuild the city-state's status as an international aviation hub with global connectivity, the national aviation authority announced on Friday.Fully vaccinated travellers from Thailand may enter Singapore under the quarantine-free travel lane (VTL) from December 14. Those coming from Cambodia, Fiji, Maldives, Sri Lanka and Turkey can do so from December 16, the Civil Aviation Authority of Singapore said. This latest move will increase the number of countries with which Singapore has VTL arrangements to 27. Before the Covid-19 pandemic, these 27 countries contributed to about 60 per cent of the total daily arrivals at the country's Changi Airport

Japan seeks to top-up defence budget, cites Chinese threat

TOKYO

JAPAN'S Cabinet on Friday approved a 770 billion yen ($6.8 billion) request for an extra defence budget through March to expedite the purchase of missiles, anti-submarine rockets and other weapons amid rising concern over the escalation of military activities by China, Russia and North Korea.

The request, still pending parliamentary approval, brings Japan's military spending for the current year to a new high of more than 6.1 trillion yen ($53.2 billion), up 15% from 5.31 trillion yen in 2020.

The Defence Ministry says its 'defence power reinforcement and acceleration package' is designed to speed up deployment of some of the key equipment from the 2022 budget request.

The goal is to beef up Japan's defences against North Korea's missile threat and China's increasingly assertive maritime activity around remote Japanese southwestern islands, officials said. Japan has also raised concerns over recent joint military activities by China and Russia.

A fleet of two Chinese H-6 fighters and two Russian Tu-95s flew from the Sea of Japan to the East China Sea and to the Pacific Ocean, triggering Japanese Self-Defence Force jets to scramble. The budget request includes nearly 100 billion yen for the advanced version of PAC-3 mobile surface-to-air missile interceptors and related equipment, as well as cruise missiles. AP

Taipei: Five lawmakers from the United States met with Taiwanese President Tsai Ing-wen on Friday in a surprise one-day visit intended to reaffirm America's 'rock-solid' support for the self-governing island that is claimed by China. Protesters target Amazon on Black Friday

LONDON

ACTIVISTS from Extinction Rebellion blockaded more than a dozen distribution centres of online retail giant Amazon in Britain in what they called coordinated global Black Friday sales protests.

Dozens of demonstrators from the environmental movement — known as XR — blocked the company's largest UK warehouse, in Dunfermline in Scotland, as well as sites across England collectively responsible for around half of its deliveries in Britain.

The group also claimed to have targeted Amazon's distribution sites in the US, Germany and the Netherlands, on the busiest day of the year for the retail behemoth.

The disruptive protests were "to confront the exploitative and environmentally destructive business practices of one of the world's largest companies", XR said.

It blocked the entrances to the UK sites using bamboo structures and so-called lock-on devices, and displayed banners featuring slogans like "Amazon crime", "Infinite growth, finite planet" and "Black Friday exploits people and planet".

The activists said they arrived around 0400 GMT at the sites, which include locations in Newcastle, Manchester and Bristol.

"The action is intended to draw attention to Amazon's exploitative and environmentally destructive business practices, disregard for workers' rights in the name of company profits, as well as the wastefulness of Black Friday," an XR spokesperson said. AFP

Court grills Pakistan military over wedding halls built on defence land

ISLAMABAD

PAKISTAN'S Supreme Court on Friday grilled the defence secretary after the powerful military was found using "strategic and defence" land for commercial activities such as renting out to wedding parties and cinemas.

A three-judge bench, headed by Chief Justice of Pakistan Gulzar Ahmed and comprising Justice Qazi Mohammad Amin Ahmed and Justice Ijazul Ahsan, was hearing the issue of military lands being used for commercial purposes at the Supreme Court's Karachi registry.

Dawn newspaper reported that the CJP grilled the defence secretary, retired Lt Gen Mohammad Hilal Hussain, over commercial use of military land, asking whether structures like "cinemas and wedding halls" were built for defence purposes.

"This land was given to you for strategic and defence [purposes and yet] you have started commercial activities on it," he said. "Were wedding halls, cinemas and housing societies built for defence purposes?" the chief justice asked.

He remarked that all Askari Housing Projects, popularly called Army Housing Scheme Defence, had been built on cantonment lands.

"We have decided that this will not happen again," the defence secretary said, adding that the construction of housing societies and commercial use of military land would be checked and stopped.

At this, Justice Amin asked Hussain how that would be made possible and where the process would start. The judge asked him to provide a written explanation. The chief justice commented that colonels and majors were acting like kings. "What the colonels and majors desire, happens," he said.

"Go and tell all the chiefs that the land meant for defence purposes will not be used for commercial objectives. Go to all the military cantonments and tell them the land will be used only for strategic purposes," CJP Ahmed ordered the defence secretary. He also said that commercial activities were underway at Masroor Base and Faisal Base in Karachi and buildings had been erected when orders were given to remove the signboards.

The bench asked Hussain whether he had a written report on the matter, at which the secretary requested more time to submit the same. PTI

RBI puts corporate entry in banking sector on hold

Allows raising promoters' stake to 26% from current levels of 15%

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

DESPITE strong push by the north block, the Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has not accepted a recommendation to allow industrial houses to float banks in the country, following the line of former RBI governor Raghuram Rajan and deputy governor Viral Acharya, who had sharply opposed the entry of large corporates into banking, at least for the time being.

The central bank on Friday said it has accepted 21 out of the 33 recommendations submitted by a central bank working group on ownership and corporate structure for Indian private sector banks.

The RBI, however, accepted the recommendation to allow raising the cap on promoters' stakes in long run of 15 years to 26%, from the current levels of 15%, giving relief to private bankers like Uday Kotak.

Last year, the RBI had allowed Uday Kotak to keep an equity stake of 26% in the bank, and not 15% as mandated for other promoters of private banks, making an exception for him. The central bank decided it kept the non-promoter shareholding capped at 10% for individuals or non-financial institutions.

The cap will be at 15% in case of all categories of financial institutions or entities, supranational institutions, public sector undertaking or government, the RBI said.

The central bank also clarified that the extant instructions on the requirement of prior approval of the RBI to acquire shareholding or voting rights of 5% or more will continue.

The RBI, on Friday, also said payments banks must operate for at least five years before applying to become small finance banks (SFB), going against the group's recommendation of three years of operations.

Also, the RBI accepted the proposal that there is no need to fix any cap on the promoters' holding in the initial five years. The central bank has accepted the recommendation to tighten the rules controlling huge NBFCs, making them as strict as the banking laws.

The regulator also accepted proposals that allowed for an increase in the minimum initial capital requirement for licensing of new banks.

RECOMMENDATIONS: WHAT'S APPROVED?

Out of the 33 sets of recommendations by the working group, the RBI accepted 21, many with modification.

Accepts raising the cap on promoters' stakes to 26%, from the current 15%.

Puts on hold the entry of corporate into banking

Tightens the rules governing big NBFCs to be as stringent as it is for banks.

RBI said payments banks must operate for at least 5 years to become small finance banks, against recommendation of three years.

Rejects non-promoter shareholding should be raised to 15% for all non-promoter shareholders.

Booking auto ride online to be costlier

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

IF you book an auto Rickshaw from Uber or Ola, you have to pay more money as the revenue department says that auto-rickshaw services provided through e-commerce platforms would attract 5 per cent GST from January 1, 2022.

In a notification dated November 18, the government withdrew the GST exemption available to auto rickshaws providing passenger transport services through e-commerce platforms. Earlier, all auto rickshaw services were exempt from GST.

Passenger transport services provided by auto rickshaw drivers through offline/ manual mode would continue to be exempted, such services when provided through any e-commerce platform would become taxable at 5% effective January 1, 2022.

Experts say that this amendment shall have a direct impact in the case of e-commerce industry players who provide an online platform to a large number of auto rickshaw drivers for connecting with riders.

"E-commerce industry has established a very crucial place in the market when it comes to facilitating passenger transport services owing to its cheaper, convenient and flexible manner of booking rides. "The newly inserted provision would render rides booked through e-commerce platform costlier thereby creating tax disparity for the same service when provided through offline vis--vis online mode," EY India Tax Partner Bipin Sapra said.

Recently there are many regulatory items that have been exempted from GST, either by industry demand or due to Covid-19 making it a complicated for the government to raise tax collection. In the last GST council meeting, the council was in favour of slowly withdrawing many exemptions. So far, GST is not levied on nearly 140 goods and over 75 services.

SEES ECONOMY GROWING AT BEST PACE IN A DECADE

Taiwan's economy will grow at its fastest pace in more than a decade in 2021, the statistics office said on Friday, upgrading its outlook on an expected strong performance in exports for the tech heavyweight island, though supply chain issues could weigh. The revision came as the statistics office nudged up its export growth forecast for this year, with global demand for the island's technology products buoyed by 5G, electric vehicles and high-end computing. GDP is expected to rise 6.09% this year, the fastest pace since it expanded 10.25% in 2010, the Directorate General of Budget, Accounting and Statistics said, and up from a growth forecast of 5.88% made in August. For 2022, the office said it saw GDP growth reaching 4.15%, up from 3.69% predicted in August. The directorate's deputy head Tsai Hung-kun said supply chain problems would impact exports in the fourth quarter, but trade growth and domestic consumption would help buoy the economy next year. It's expected that exports this year will rise 28.88% from 2020, up slightly from the previous prediction of 28.15%, while for next year, exports could be up 6.14%, from 5.22% seen before. Fitch Solutions earlier on Friday retained its expectation for 6% growth this year, but said it would slow to 2.7% next year, with supply chain issues.

HONG KONG

FIRMS LIFT PROPERTIES FROM DISTRESSED DEVELOPERS

After years of expansion in Hong Kong, cash-strapped Chinese developers are reducing their presence in one of the world's most expensive property markets, allowing firms in the financial hub to scoop up some of their assets at distressed prices. Developers including China Evergrande Group and Kaisa Group Holdings Ltd, struggling under billions of dollars in debt, have sold some assets in recent months to Hong Kong developers to help ease liquidity stress back home. There's more to come - Aoyuan Group, which this week extended the redemption date of onshore asset-backed securities, is trying to offload more Hong Kong properties to raise capital, Reuters reported. Aoyuan is planning to sell a redeveloped office building in Kwai Chung in eastern Hong Kong, and the bidders will likely be local investors or family offices, said the sources, declining to be named as the information is confidential. The deal is expected to be sold at less than what Aoyuan paid for it, the sources added. Aoyuan bought the building for HK$950 million ($121.83 million) in 2018, and property agents estimate its current valuation at less than HK$800 million. The trend will help Hong Kong property tycoons to further boost their dominance in the Chinese-controlled territory.

CHINA

TO EXPAND SCOPE OF BANKS' FOREX DERIVATIVES BIZ

China's foreign exchange regulator said on Friday it would expand the scope of banks' foreign exchange derivatives business. Qualified banks can provide derivatives services between yuan and foreign currencies to cooperative banks, including forward settlements and currency swaps, it said. The regulator added that banks should guide their customers to establish a risk-neutral mentality by focusing more on the core business and hedging foreign exchange risks instead of betting on currency for more profit, according to the notice. It added that banks should provide customers with exchange rate and risk management services based on the principles of real demand and the principle of risk neutrality. China's financial regulators have urged companies to protect themselves against currency risks this year as the central bank gradually loosens its control of the yuan, but are struggling to convince local businesses to hedge. Sources told Reuters last week that a central bank-led self-regulatory group that helps to oversee China's foreign exchange industry had asked commercial banks to cap the size of their proprietary trading accounts, which many market participants interpreted as a move to limit financial institutions' speculation on the yuan.

Vodafone Idea demonstrates 4Gbps speed during 5G trials

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

PRIVATE telecom operator Vodafone Idea (Vi) on Friday demonstrated achieving 4 gigabit per second speed during its ongoing 5G trials. The company has been running 5G trial in Gandhinagar with telecom gear maker Nokia and in Pune with Ericsson.

Vi showcased 5G-powered applications such as enhanced mobile broadband (eMBB), ultra-reliable low latency communications (uRLLC), multi-access edge computing (MEC), virtual and augmented reality (VR/AR), among others.

The telco is developing use cases across segments such as industry 4.0, smart cities, smart healthcare, smart workplace, smart education, smart agriculture, gaming, amongst others using the spectrum allotted temporarily by the the government. Vi said that this speed was achieved in the 26 gigahertz spectrum band, or the millimeter band, which is proposed to be put for sale in the future auction.

These tests by Vi come at a time when rivals Bharti Airtel and Reliance Jio continue to hold multiple trials across the country in a bid to dominate this next generation technology. Airtel on Thursday became the first telco to test 5G technology in the 700Mhz band. A company executive said that the government has extended 5G trials by six months, and it will go on till May 2022 or till the spectrum auction result, whichever is earlier.

Amazon alleges FRL siphoned off ₹7,000 crore

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

THE Amazon-Future Retail fight has entered the next round with Amazon now alleging the management of Future Retail of siphoning off ₹7,000 crore.

Amazon has made this allegation in a letter written on 24th November, 2021 to the independent directors and audit committee of Future Retail. The US headquartered e-commerce company has also sent a copy of the letter to the Ministry of Corporate Affairs, governor of the Reserve Bank of India (RBI), Securities Exchange Board of India (Sebi), Competition Commission of India (CCI) and the National Financial Reporting Authority (NFRA).

According to sources close to the development, Amazon has alleged that Future Retail instead of servicing its debt obligations chose to divert ₹7,000 crore through several Future group companies.

According to allegations by Amazon, debt of Future Retail jumped significantly in the February-March 2020 period. Future Retail, allegedly failed to explain the reasons for significant increase in debt of the company, when asked by the audit committee.

The letter had also alleged that during the same time (when FRL witnessed significant jump in debt), the company entered into many related-party transactions, and even made advance payments to suppliers.

Amazon has been trying to stop Future group from selling Future Retail to Reliance Retail in a ₹24,000-crore deal. It had moved Singapore International Arbitration Centre (SIAC) against the deal and the international arbitration court had put a hold on the deal for now.

Cummins named Test captain, Smith deputy

New variant puts question mark over India's South Africa tour

VENKATA KRISHNA B @ Chennai

WITH the new Covid-19 variant found in South Africa triggering alarm bells across the globe, India's upcoming tour of South Africa hangs in the balance. While the Board of Control for Cricket in India (BCCI) officials have no plans to take a decision on the tour in a haste, they are waiting for more details to emerge about the new variant, which is now turning into a cause of concern.

Although the India team is scheduled to leave for South Africa only on December 9 early morning, the India A team is currently at Bloemfontein and still has two more four-day matches to play. With both teams staying in a bio-secure bubble, it is understood that there is no immediate threat to the series as of now and any decision on it will be taken on the basis of advisory issued by the local health department.

With regards to the senior men's tour, the BCCI, apart from seeking a detailed deport from Cricket South Africa (CSA), will also consult with the India players and the team management before deciding on the series. According to reports, South Africa is expecting a fourth Covid wave mid-December. The three-match Freedom Series for the Gandhi-Mandela Trophy begins with the first Test at Johannesburg on December 17, followed by Boxing Day Test in Centurion and New Year's Test in Cape Town. The three ODIs and four T20Is are split between Cape Town and Paarl.

Though it is too early, a BCCI official said that the tour could go ahead as scheduled provided the CSA puts in place a foolproof bio-secure environment. In all likelihood, the venues could be changed with Bloemfontein, Durban and Port Elizabeth being spoken about as alternatives. Before finalising, the board will consult with the players, whose decision would be weighed in before deciding anything. The Indian players have already spent a considerable amount of time in the bubble life and the need to undergo hard quarantine is not going to be well-received among the players.

As things stand, the Indian government hasn't placed South Africa in red-list countries, but like previous instances, if the Covid numbers go up, that situation could change, and that too very quickly. "It is too early to come to any conclusion at this stage. We don't know how the situation will be in a week's time. We are waiting for CSA to come up with a plan and once that is presented, we will consult with our authorities and take a call. The players' well-being is of utmost importance and given the tight schedule, if quarantine rules are in place on arrival, it may lead to changes in plans," a BCCI official said.

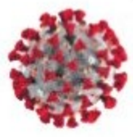
Players and teams scrambling to get out of SA

Johannesburg: British and Irish golfers and rugby teams were scrambling to return home on Friday after the UK government announced it was banning flights from South Africa to counter the spread of a new Covid variant. The DP World Tour started Thursday but more than a dozen players pulled out of the Joburg Open because of the new restrictions. United Rugby Championship matches in South Africa over the next two weekends were postponed, and Welsh teams Cardiff and Scarlets were trying to get out.

Jr Women's Hockey WC in South Africa postponed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bhubaneswar/Chennai

THE junior women's World Cup, scheduled to be held in South Africa from December 5, has been put on hold by the International Hockey Federation (FIH). The development is as a result of a new coronavirus variant (B.1.1.529). The variant, according to the scientific community, is a cause for concern because of the way it has mutated. Considering the variant has made its presence felt in South Africa over the last few days, the FIH, in a press release, said: "(...) will not happen under these circumstances." The situation rapidly evolved on Friday after several governments, including UK, announced fresh travel restrictions following a rise in new infections linked to the variant.



FIH CEO, Thierry Weil, said it isn't possible to maintain this event as planned. "The safety of everyone involved in the FIH events is an absolute priority," he said. "Additionally, many countries, including from some of the participating teams, have now strongly increased their travel restrictions with South Africa, including halting flights.

"Therefore, it simply isn't possible to maintain this event as planned. This is hugely disappointing. An FIH Junior World Cup is so important for the development of young players. Also, it was the first time that an FIH World Cup was due to take place on African soil. On behalf of FIH, I'd like to thank all teams for their understanding." he added.

"FIH will keep monitoring the situation and take a decision about the potential staging of the 2021 FIH Hockey Women's Junior World Cup as soon as it will be possible to do so," the release added.

Wrestling meet in doubt

The new variant might lead to postponement or cancellation of the Commonwealth Wrestling Championships scheduled in Pretoria from December 3 to 5. As many as 60 wrestlers from the country are expected to take part in the event. However, Wrestling Federation of India (WFI) says the event is on with no official word from the organisers yet. "The event is on and our first batch of participants comprising Greco-Roman wrestlers will leave on November 30," Vinod Tomar, WFI's assistant secretary, told this daily.

Ronaldo fans, English lessons and ace drag-flickers... meet India's 20 players at Junior WC

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Bhubaneswar

THE best brain to pick in order to know a thing or two about the Indian team that's competing at the junior World Cup in Bhubaneswar is Jude Felix. He was in charge of the junior programme when 55 of the best boys walked through the Sports Authority of India's gate in Bengaluru in 2017.

"They were raw back then," Felix remembers. The first international tournament for the Class of 2017 was the invitational Sultan of Johor Cup in October. India finished third and the management had their first proper look at the likes of Sanjay, Rabichandra Singh Moirangthem, Maninder Singh and Dilpreet Singh (he has since played at the Olympics). The team was skippered by Vivek Sagar Prasad.

Over the next 18 months, Felix, using what he calls 'an holistic approach to training', sharpened the bunch so much that by the middle of 2019, 'they were ready to play the World Cup'.

The profile pages of the junior players in the Hockey India website make for interesting reading. Five of the 20 players (including the two alternates) at the World Cup have the same 'sporting role model'. Cristiano Ronaldo. "Ronaldo because I think he is limitless," notes Sanjay, the team's vice-captain, on his page. The admiration for Ronaldo inside India's dressing room meant there was a beeline for wearing the No 7 shirt at this tournament but Sanjay beat the competition as he called dibs on it. He admitted as much after Thursday's match against Canada.

Apart from being dictating play from the back, Sanjay's role in the side is also one of the most important in modern hockey: dragflicker. Considering that he's already scored six goals in two matches, he could well take the spot Rupinderpal Singh vacated after the Olympics.

There is something pure in the way Haryana-born player strikes the dead ball from a penalty corner. Once it's stopped, he brings down the stick towards the ball like an expert carpenter brings down a sledgehammer on a loose nail. The hitting arc is textbook. The ball flies parallel to the ground but is a reluctant flier. It almost kisses the turf before hurtling past the goalkeeper's shins to sound the board. When the sound echoes around the cavernous stadium, Sanjay almost walks back with an unmistakable swagger, like he didn't expect any other result. It's kind of obvious that he has spent time working on the dragflick with the likes of Rupinder and Harmanpreet Singh (his body language closely represents Harmanpreet). The work to polish his dragflicks, though, began under Felix. "He had a few skills when he came," Felix says. "He just worked on it repeatedly through training, nothing else."

At the World Cup, five of his six strikes have come via this route. But it's not just Sanjay (one of his earliest positive penalty corner strikes was against Australia in that Sultan of Johor event in 2017) alone who is adept in the art of the dragflick. Shardanand Tiwari, Abhishek Lakra and Araijeet Singh Hundal are all capable exponents of the art.

All three of them scored via this route against Canada and Sanjay said they had good training. "We have three to four coaches and we practice this," he said.

Out of the 20, Yashdeep Siwach is the lone exception in the sense that he picked a hockey stick only when he was a teen. You would have been forgiven for expecting Siwach to pick up a stick much earlier considering his mom, Pritam, was a noted hockey player, going on to captain the national team. Instead, till the age of 16, Siwach was winning titles in the pool. Soon after he made the switch, he became a mainstay for the colts, even featuring in the team that won silver at the Sultan of Johor Cup in 2019. Most of the rest had hockey sticks on them around the age of 10.

And all of them took the now familiar route of playing in a renowned academy before being selected for the junior national camp in Bengaluru. However, like most stories involving Indian sport, the young turks have felt immense hardship along the way to wearing the India jersey. For example, Uttam Singh, who has scored in both games, had to rely on his seniors to help him financially to retain his dream. "Humble background", was a phrase that kept coming up in the briefs of the 20 players made available to the media before the tournament.

When all of them joined camp in Bengaluru, they were subject to four hour training periods of two hours each every day from Felix and the support staff. "We had seven hockey sessions and two strength and conditioning sessions every week," Felix says. "Apart from that, I also ran sessions on general knowledge, etiquette and manners. I don't think I have ever faced a problem with this bunch."

Those same thoughts were echoed by their English lecturer (Hockey India imparted short-term English and psychology sessions to the team in Bengaluru).

"They were all extremely serious in what they did," the lecturer says. "Even if some of them initially had problems with communication, all of them picked it up quickly. They never shied away from asking doubts... they were a very inquisitive bunch."

There is a belief that like the 2016 bunch, this batch could give quite a number of players to the senior setup within the next two years. The likes of Sanjay, Hundal, Shardanand and Uttam could be around for a long time to come.

Results: Pool A: South Africa 5-1 Chile, Malaysia 1-1 Belgium; Pool C: South Korea 5-1 USA, Spain 2-3 The Netherlands; Pool D: Argentina 2-3 Germany.

Southee sets the pace, openers follow suit

ASHIM SUNAM @ Bengaluru

EVEN before a single ball was bowled in the first Test between India and New Zealand in Kanpur, there were a lot of talks about the importance of spinners. The line-up of both teams with three spinners each gave a fair picture of what to expect in the Test. It was quite understandable with the past history of Green Park track, which has assisted spinners as early as Day 1.

However, the story has been quite different in this Test. Of the ten wickets that has fallen on the first two days, it is the pacers, who have scalped eight. If it was Kyle Jamieson on the opening day, Tim Southee, who bowled in the right channels, scalped four wickets (and one on Day 1) on Friday. It was the experienced pacer's spell, which brought back the Kiwis into the game with India skidding from 258/4 to 345 all out.

Scoreboard

India 1st innings (O/n 258/4): Shreyas c Young b Southee 105, Jadeja b Southee 50, Saha c Blundell b Southee 1, Ashwin b Axar 38, Umesh not out 10, Ishant lbw Patel 0, Extras (b5, lb2, nb4, w1) 12, Total (all out in 111.1 overs) 345, FoW: 5-266, 6-288, 7-305, 8-313, 9-339, Bowling: Southee 27.4-6-69-5, Jamieson 23.2-6-91-3, Patel 29.1-7-90-2, Somerville 24-2-60-0, Ravindra 7-1-28-0.

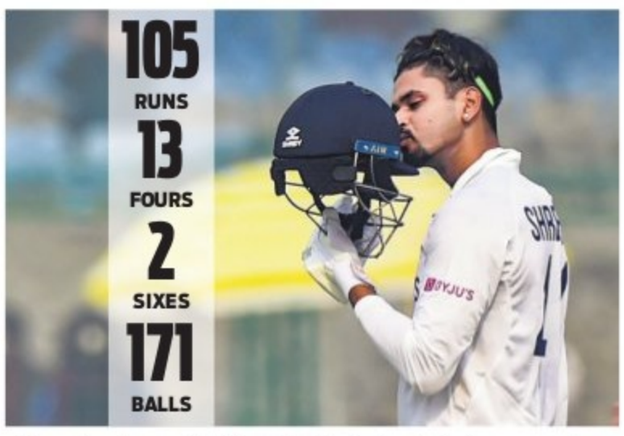
New Zealand 1st innings: Latham (batting) 50, Young (batting) 75, Extras (lb1, nb3) 4, Total (no loss in 57 overs) 129, Bowling: Ishant 6-3-10-0, Umesh 10-3-26-0, Ashwin 17-5-38-0, Jadeja 14-4-28-0, Axar 10-1-26-0.

The day belonged to the Black Caps, who finished on 129/0 with both the openers Tom Latham (50 n.o) and Will Young (75 n.o) impressing. If there was anything to write home about for India, it was Shreyas Iyer (105), who completed his maiden ton to become the 16th Indian to score a century on his Test debut earlier on the day.

With the kind of dominance India spinners have had at home, one expected them to shine straight away. The last time India played at home against England, R Ashwin and Axar Patel scalped 32 and 27 wickets in four and three matches respectively. Cut to Kanpur, the spinners had little assistance from the pitch and more importantly, the New Zealand batters were up to the task. The duo alongside Ravindra Jadeja accounted for 41 overs without any reward, something rare for the trio in home conditions. The pacers, Ishant Sharma and Umesh Yadav, also failed to deliver.

One has to give credit to the way the New Zealand openers Latham and Young played even when some balls kept low. The latter, who was playing his first Test in the subcontinent, was calm and composed in his approach. His ability to come down the track, play the sweep and his defence with the bat and pad close, showcased his ability to flourish in India. Young's innings consisted of 12 fours while a much-experienced campaigner Latham hit four fours.

"It is going to be a challenging day for us with them getting off to a good start. The wicket is not really helping our bowlers, so we have to focus more on the areas and give less runs. We need to build more pressure because one wicket can change the momentum towards us and once the ball starts to spin or some cracks start to open, it will shift the momentum," said Shreyas, who was one of Southee's wickets.



Shreyas Iyer became the 16th male cricketer from India to score a century on Test debut. The 26-year-old scored 105 on Friday | SPORTZPICS

Vax for fans not players at Tata Open

SWAROOP SWAMINATHAN
@ Bhubaneswar

THE organisers of the Tata Open Maharashtra have guaranteed to the ATP that players coming to take part in the event won't have to go through quarantine upon landing in India. That was one of the main reasons why the ATP 250 event has figured in the calendar for the 2022 season. The event begins in its usual slot of January 31, the week after the Australian Open.

Apart from that, the organisers have also assured the ATP that if a player tests positive during the course of the tournament, he will not be shifted to a hospital. "They will be isolated in the official tournament hotel itself and they will not be shifted to a hospital," the source added.

Even if there is a vigorous debate on in international tennis, the organisers have also made it clear that the players flying in need not be vaccinated. "We have told the ATP that there will be no need for quarantine," a source involved in the organising committee told this daily. "We are also clear that players will not need to be vaccinated to play in the event." It's in stark contrast to the Australian Open where the chief has gone on record to say that unvaccinated players will not be allowed inside the country. There will also be fans in the stands again, but the organisers will only allow fully vaccinated fans to watch the action "We are planning to have upto 500 double vaccinated fans every day."

While the return of a top-tier tour event is good news for Indian players, who have been starved of action because of the pandemic, it remains to be seen what calibre of players will participate. Usually, top players prefer to not play in an event immediately after a Grand Slam. Apart from that, several of the top-50 confirm their participation by the first or second week of November. Considering two other tour events take place at the same time — Open Sud de France and Cordoba Open — it could be a challenge to attract the best of the available players.

Rider Sanyogeeta Kada speaks to CE about her recent feat with her horse Abra Kadabra and her journey as an equestrian

STRIDES OF SUCCESS

SANATH PRASAD

SANYOGEETHA Kada was 13 years old when she first went on overnight trails around forts in Pune as part of a summer camp activity, with Marwari horses. However, she started pursuing the sport seriously, when she met equestrian Col Gulam Mohammed Khan and started coaching under him at Col Khan's Riding Academy in 2006. Since then, Kada has not looked back. Recently participating at the FEI (International Federation for Equestrian Sports) jumping world challenge that started on November 20 in Mumbai, Kada won the first round consisting of a chain of tops and turns in Category B. Kada, who won the best rider of Open Category at the Equestrian Premier League in 2021, is also an instructor at Embassy International Riding School in Bengaluru. She is currently training over 15 riders who will be participating in the junior nationals at Amateur Riders' Club (ARC) in Mumbai next month.

For Kada, however, the initial days of equestrianism were challenging. From balancing academics and sports to handling the lack of opportunities at equestrian events, Kada had to face multiple odds. "In fact, after finishing my 10th standard board exams, my father used to pick me up from the exam hall and drive me straight to the stable for training. I also competed in an equestrian event that was two days ahead of my 12th standard board exam. I tried to balance both equally. Although I started riding 15 years ago, I did not get enough opportunities to compete, because in the mid 2000s, there were hardly two-three shows a year," says the 28-year-old who has now been training with Abra Kadabra, a seven-year-old Belgian Warmblood horse. "I usually take it one step at a time. I focus on one horse and set the goals for my upcoming tournaments. Since the last two years, Abra has grown a lot. I am seeing a lot of scope and potential in him," adds Kada.

Interestingly, Ashish Limaye, an equestrian and Kada's husband, also happens to coach her. Limaye and Kada, who moved out of Khan's Riding School, started training and riding together. "Ashish is a very tough coach. We forget our relationship when we are on the field. Currently, he is training in Germany, and we often hold virtual calls where he guides me during my warm-ups. If I am struggling with the horse, I record a video and share it with him, after which he suggests a plan of action," says Kada, who bagged an all-India ranking of four at Fei Dressage Senior 1 in November 2021.

Currently participating at the ARC, Kada believes that the new arena gives a good footing to the horses. The floodlights too play a key role, facilitating night rides.

"I train Arba for 30-40 minutes a day and I also train with at least five to six horses every day. My goal is to participate in the Asian Games and represent India at the next Olympics. However, I will be taking up tournaments one step at a time," she signs off.

I have been coaching Sanyogeeta for a long time now. Sometimes it can be challenging, but most times it's fun. Both of us have our areas of expertise, teaching being mine and management being hers. When I am coaching her, I am the toughest on her because I really want her to do better and push her to her maximum potential

- Ashish Limaye, equestrian

ACT OF CHANGE

The Tamil actor, who recently graduated from Christ University, is in a lesbian love music video which is creating waves online

ANILA KURIAN

SOCIAL media has been abuzz with Tamil music video Magizhini, which is making waves owing to its new-age content. It happens to be the first song in Tamil to zoom in on the LGBT community. And Gouri Kishan, who rose to fame with her performance as the young Janaki Devi in the Tamil romantic movie 96 which starred Vijay Sethupathi and Trisha as lead characters, is again making headlines with this music video.

Speaking to CE about the project written and directed by VG Balasubramanian, Kishan says, "Bharatanatyam dancer Anagha and I carry forward the story in the music video. It's a story about my character's parents finding out that she's a lesbian. It is also about my dance partner Anagha who shifts to Chennai."

According to the storyline, the two get attracted to each other during a Bharatanatyam practice session. " I loved that a male director has thought this through so well. It shows a woman's sensitive feelings, emotions and highlights gender binary with it," says the 22-year-old actor, who has also been seen in Master as Savitha and as Pozhilal in Karnan.

The video released on YouTube earlier this week has more than 2.4 million views. "Many say that you should create content that people want to see but I don't think that's true. If the quality is spoken with sensitivity, the audience will accept it too," says Kishan.

The music video was shot right after the first wave of Covid-19. Kishan was still pursuing her final year of Journalism, English and Psychology at Christ University. So, how did she manage films and her college work? "It was so tough," she exclaims, adding, "But I had great support from all my teachers and the management. I made sure that I kept my grades up, and completed all my projects."

Kishan, a trained classical dancer, had lost touch with the artform for a few years. However, for the music video she had to restart practice once again. "The initial training with choreographer Vishwakiran Nambi was done online, and then Anagha and I met at her home for the parts where we needed to work together," she says, adding that the team eventually went to Chennai to complete the project.

When asked if the under seven-minute video was an easier task than acting in her movies for her, she says, "I try my best not to distinguish my projects like that. At the end of the day, it's our job and we still have to shoot and do all the work."

During the lockdown last year, Kishan kept herself busy. "I learnt to read and write Tamil and screenwriting. I took to yoga as well," says Kishan, who is currently shooting for a film in Kerala, and is looking forward to the release of her other projects on OTT platforms and at multiplexes.

FIT BIT

EKA PADA MAKARASANA

(ONE-LEGGED DOLPHIN POSE)

It is a balancing posture where the body is supported by the forearms and one foot, with the hips lifted to form an inverted 'V' shape. The inverted nature of the posture with the head lower than the heart means it is connected with Sahasrara (crown) Chakra. Working with postures that stimulate Sahasrara chakra is thought to help bring greater trust, connection and happiness to the yogi through connection to the higher self or the divine. It is considered a stimulating posture for the nervous system. This asana is also considered to alleviate stress, anxiety and mild depression.

STEPS

- Do the Dolphin Pose (Catur Svanasana). Hold it for a while being aware of the breath and the stretch.
- Inhale, raise your left leg up and extend the left hip while keeping the forearms and the other foot grounded.
- Point the toes towards the floor. This will help to keep the hip square while extended. Begin to be aware of your breath, after exhaling completely. Ensure the alignment is perfect.
- Remain in this pose for about 3-4 breaths. With each inhalation lengthen from the hip, and push the chest towards the floor, keeping the shoulders engaged and strong.
- To release, look up, exhale and bring the leg down. Exhale completely, and come back to Dolphin Pose. Relax for about 2-3 breaths; adjust and align the body.
- Then, inhale and lift the right leg up extending the right hip. Follow the same instructions as above and stay in this pose for about 3-4 breaths.
- Exhale, gently drop the knees on the mat and come to relax completely in Balasana (Child Pose) with the arms lengthened on the floor.

BENEFITS

- Stretches and strengthens the muscles of the extended leg. Improves the range of motion of the hips.
- Helps maintain the shoulders, arms and upper back.
- Works on the chest, diaphragm and breathing.
- Increases concentration and builds self-awareness.
- Stimulates and activates the involved internal organs.
- Gives a better control of the body and mind. With the active chakras, the body feels energised, calming the nervous system.
- It is a combination of inversion, stretch and strength.

LIMITATIONS

- If you have high blood pressure, carpal tunnel system (CTS), or are suffering from diarrhoea, avoid this.
- Breathe deeply during the process. Practise under the guidance of a yoga expert.

RUBINATIONS
Rubi Chakravarti
Writer, actor and funny girl

ANOTHER week has melted into oblivion and there is a gamut of emotions that run deep. One doesn't know whether to be shocked, saddened or indifferent. This year came in with a bang and seems to be ending on the same note. The infrastructure has collapsed and brought in its wake, despair, depression and death. In the last two weeks I have lost five friends and one is desperately ill.

But, what prevails is the resilience of the young, the fortitude of the old and the general 'never-say-die' attitude of the Indian people. Sometimes I think we are so adjusting and compromising that we tend to live in a fool's paradise. After my long and winding days (during the lockdown period), I had a lot of time for real reflection. I am a gregarious person who is constantly in communication with everyone. Whereas this type of bonhomie always kept me in good stead with others, I realised I rarely listened to myself. Listening to myself and identifying my needs (we are taught to push our 'wants' under the carpet), I learned to enjoy my own company, respect myself and my space and to be brave whilst taking a stand even if I was alone. I realised that 'others' would reflect and imitate the respect I gave to myself…and at the end of the journey, my soul will be free of burden because now I know the meaning of 'choice'.

I had a choice to live my life whole, complete and full of love and be accountable for all that I let into my life. Well, my NAG (new-age guru) will be pleased! Quite eloquently done! (QED).

Bengaluru is bursting at its seams with parties and launches. Some are nice and some can be given the big 'avoid'. But, I am a nice 'luru' girl so I nod my head (like Mary of the little lamb fame) and say 'yes' to most places while my aching body is screaming a big fat NO!

The new-age MARCOM girls certainly know their business and actually, it's really fun to attend their events because they are impeccable with their planning and execution. Invitations and reminders go out sequentially and when one attends, they make sure that there is right mix of acquaintances and friends so one doesn't feel alienated. The brunch at Gawky Goose, the newest hip-joint in town, was one such afternoon. Their fabulous non-stop repertoire of food, mulled wines, cocktails, the foot-tapping music and chatter of happy people was 'spirit-soaring'… and 'All really seemed well with the world'.

Sarayu Hegde, Divya Nichani, Aashti Sindhu, Sakena Begg, Namu Kini and Ira Guha

Sneha Chandrashekar is a resourceful young lady who has over the years utilised her talents very adeptly. She has carved a unique niche in the F&B industry, working with the largely unsung heroes… the chefs, putting a spotlight on them and giving them the recognition they deserve. Her intimately curated wine dinner at The Den was a resounding success. Vinesh Gupta and his executive chef Kapil Dubey, paired wines with Indian food, keeping aside all the snooty reservations that traditionalists have. A small group of open-minded discerning people, good food, great wine and voila! One has a dinner party that is straight up my alley!

Veganism is a choice that people make…I don't know if they are saving the planet but it's a choice! We were invited to Vegan Vogue by owner Abdul Azeez. This restaurant caters to the needs of a fast-growing vegan population in our city. It is still a new concept and we tend to confuse it with a gluten-free cuisine. My predominantly meat-eating palate was pleasantly surprised at the fare. No dairy so all the sauces are made with cashew, almond or coconut paste. No doubt it is the 'food for the Gods' and the well-heeled vegan warriors who came in to dine, thought so too!

Till we meet again, be thankful and kind.

Stirrers & Shakers

RAVI SINGH
The writer is bar manager, Suzy Q by 1522

TRAINED mixologists are taught what flavours and effects are produced by different elements. After that, it depends on one's innovativeness. On the other hand, a hobby bartender usually starts with some classic cocktail recipes, and then concocts cocktails by trial and personal preferences.

Making cocktails at home can be an enjoyable experience and you can really impress your guests. Cocktails are usually made in one of three ways. Built, Shaken, and Stirred. Built cocktails are produced entirely in the vessel in which they will be served, for instance a Planter's Punch. Next, we have Stirred, which is self-explanatory. This usually dilutes the cocktail to the extent required. Lastly, we have shaken. This is meant to create a bit of aeration in the drink.

However, whether one is a professional bartender or mixologist, or a hobbyist, it helps to have the right implements to begin with. After that, you can experiment to your heart's content. Some of the more widely used implements are:

SHAKERS: These can vary from basic enclosed jars that serve the purpose, to the two-tin shaker to the more common three-part shaker which has a built-in strainer in the lid and a small cap to cover it whilst shaking.

JIGGER: Also called a Peg measure, it is meant to measure the quantity of ingredients. Usually, 60 and 30 ml in India.

BAR SPOON OR STIRRER: The bar spoon is what you will need to stir ice and mix drinks. A longer spoon helps, especially for deep drinks.

ZESTER: This is a small slim grater meant for fruit rind, veggies, and spices like nutmeg in order to garnish the cocktail.

SMALL KNIFE AND CUTTING BOARD: To cut fruits and veggies for garnishing the cocktail.

LEMON SQUEEZER: May sound obvious, but very much required for preparing cocktails.

STRAINER: This is used to strain bits of ice and fruits or veggies that you don't want in the final drink. Any convenient strainer can be used for the purpose. While there are many more advanced implements to assist bartenders, the hobbyist should be able to get by quite comfortably with the ones mentioned.

Happy Cocktailing!

GANESH-SUNI DELIVER A SMART AND FUN COURTOOM DRAMA

A SHARADHAA

CRIME might not be funny, but at times, when a person is facing a lot of dilemmas, it has tremendous potential to be a laugh riot. Suni picks on this aspect of life with Sakath and creates situations, which are intense, but cleverly turns them around into sequences that result in chuckles and guffaws.

A courtroom drama, the film is a sincere experiment and effortlessly blends a triangular love story, crime drama, and a situational comedy into a commercial entertainer.

Beginning with a song tribute to Puneeth Rajkumar, Suni, who wanted to avoid any kind of controversies post-release intelligently plugs in many disclaimers.

RATING 3.5/5

The entire story revolves around Baalu (Ganesh), who aspires to become a singer like SP Balasubramanyam since childhood. Unfortunately, he loses his parents and ends up growing up around an orchestra run by Sadhu (Sadhu Kokila). His romance with anchor Mayuri (Surbhi) manages to get him into a singing competition. The makers of the reality show, looking for TRP, take advantage by claiming him to be visually impaired, which becomes one part of the story. However, an accident in the vicinity puts Baalu in a spot, and the turning point is when he becomes a witness to a crime.

Reality bites when Baalu enters Drishti school, a school for the blind, and joins as a singing teacher. How the children and a blind teacher (Nishvika) change Baalu's perspective about the visually impaired, and how the crime unravels is narrated with twists and turns.

Except for a few repeated scenes, the film relies on the second half where the director pulls off his tricks and succeeds.

Suni has managed the right casting with Ganesh, who has come up with a different character. He puts up a genuine performance in Sakath. Nishvika too gives an impressive performance, and good support comes from Surbhi. The humour sequences featuring Sadhu Kokila, Giri, Kuri Pratap, Dharmanna, and Rangayana Raghu work to the film's advantage. Actor Uthpal has a small role to play, but he has a very strong presence in the film. Sakath also marks Ganesh's son Vihaan's big screen debut, who appears in a special role. Music by Judah Sandy is melodious and goes along with the story.

Despite the long runtime, the whodunit courtroom drama, which is a solid creative work by the writer in Suni, definitely makes for a new and interesting genre for the audience.

SAKATH

Cast : Ganesh, Nishvika, Surbhi, Sadhu Kokila, Rangayana Raghu, and Malavika Avinash

Director: Suni

A FUN RIDE SANS THE ORIGINAL ZEST

A SHARADHAA

GOVINDA Govinda, a remake of the Telugu crime-comedy caper, Brochevarevarura, has a lot of local flavour but does not stray far from the original. Helmed by Thilak, the film does not have any signature visual work and heavily borrows from the original written and directed by Vivek Athreya.

RATING 2.5/5

The film tells the story of an aspiring director (Roopesh Shetty) who narrates an interesting script to a popular heroine, Padmavathi (Bhavana), with whom he plans to make a film. Parallelly, there is also a story that revolves around Venkat (Sumanth Shailendra), Keshav (Pavan Kumar) and Hari (Vijay Chendoor), three friends, disinterested in studies. They happen to connect with Alamelu (Kavitha Gowda), a new entrant to the college, and she instantly connects with the trio. The daughter of the college principal (Achyuth Kumar), she is not able to come to terms with her father's principled lifestyle, and works out ways to be away from him, hoping to fulfil her passion, for which she seeks help from her close friends. In an attempt to help her, the three youths come up with crazy ideas, which extends to robbery. How they get into a mess, and how it has a direct connection with the director is unravelled in the second half, creating a roller-coaster ride.

Basing the film in Bijapur and Bengaluru provides the film with Kannada nativity. The acting is functional in the film, which also scores very low on the technical front. The comedy-drama, which comes with an underlying message, does make for a one-time watch that had the potential to be a fun ride.

GOVINDA GOVINDA

Cast: Sumanth Shailendra, Bhavana, Kavitha Gowda, Roopesh Shetty, Vijay Chendoor and Pavan Kumar

Director: Thilak

TRIPLY ANNOYING THAN THE LAST

SATYAMEVA JAYATE 2

Cast: John Abraham, Divya Khosla Kumar, Anup Soni, Zakir Hussain

Director: Milap Zaveri

SHILAJIT MITRA

THREE years ago, a little-known indie art film called Satyameva Jayate was released. At least that's how I remember it, given the toils and spoils of its sequel. Milap Zaveri is a director whose only true competition is himself. Only Milap can top Milap—and thus, by extension, one John Abraham beat another. Hence the ground for Satyameva Jayate 2, which is doubly loud, triply muscular, and eight times as insufferable.

Uttar Pradesh – and the rest of India in general – is in ruins; children are dying outside hospitals. State Home Minister Satya Balram Azaad (John) tries to push an anti-corruption bill through the assembly. He fails, recites a sad poem about the country, and leaves. His embarrassment is exacerbated by the fact that his wife, Vidya (Divya Khosla Kumar), voted against him. "It's a politician who opposed the bill," she tells reporters with a straight face. "Not his wife."

Faring a little better in life (stay with me) is Satya's twin brother, Jay, also played by John. A khaki-clad brute, Jay has what Urban Dictionary describes as Patriotic Derangement Syndrome (PDS). Thrashing goons at a function, he suddenly stops, transfixed by the 'Jana Gana Mana' that's playing. Meanwhile, there's a third John, a hooded vigilante, going about town. Is he Jay? Is he Satya? Is he the ghost of Mumbai Saga's box-office performance back for revenge?

RATING 1/5

A double role is a natural magnet for brawny action stars. John, attempting a tripler, is hardly distinguishable across the turns. When Satya and Jay attend a wedding, in similar clothes, I lost track of which is which. Their father, Dadasaheb Azaad, was a slain reformer—without the crop of facial hair, he could just be one of the boys. It's a blankly wasted gambit, the characters appearing more like clones than separate individuals.

The setting of Uttar Pradesh infuses the film with a sham urgency. Nary a newspoint is left out: rape, murders, the shortage of oxygen in hospitals. But while the film's inherent narrative chaos might be a comment on the state's affairs, there are also evasions. Lucknow, where the film was shot, is never named—it could well be called John-pur. Satya's party is in power, yet he looks utterly helpless. The villains are usually businessmen or smaller politicians. The anti-corruption rants are so bad, they would've grated in 2011. The whole tone is excessive, exploitative, and exaggerated. Not very satya at all.

Milap, of course, would defend this wreck. Rhyming 'murga' with 'durga', he'd say, is exactly what audiences want. His filmmaking has devolved spectacularly over the years. He's no Shankar, who can do exaggerated violence with a sense of terror and scale. John's fighting style remains unchanged throughout the film. Once a patron of hard-hitting cinema (Vicky Donor, Madras Café), the actor now just prefers to hit people hard. Satyameva Jayate 2 nods to classics like Bulandi and Sooryavansham, but lacks their emotional force. The song sequences are patchily edited. The only two comic scenes feel like ad breaks.

'Appetizing' is a descriptor I rarely use, let alone for a Milap Zaveri film. Today, though, I must accept defeat. Satyameva Jayate 2 made me hungry—in the worst way imaginable.

ANTIM: THE FINAL TRUTH

Cast: Salman Khan, Aayush Sharma, Mahima Makwana, Sachin Khedekar

Director: Mahesh Manjrekar

THE END IS FAR

SHILAJIT MITRA

IT'S been a year of smackdown movies. Back in March, Godzilla and Kong tore up the world. Then came Venom: Let There Be Carnage, with its dual symbiotes. Closer home, if you're the masochist type, you can watch John Abraham battle himself in Satyameva Jayate 2. Or you may not. For the truly valiant viewer, there's a whole new bout in town.

Aayush Sharma, brother-in-law of Salman Khan, made his debut in the 2018 musical Loveyatri. The film was produced by Salman, but clearly that wasn't enough. So now he must step into the ring. The role Salman has, in Mahesh Manjrekar's Antim: The Final Truth, is a dual one: he must back Aayush up while also bringing him down. To decode the film's logic, a family that bleeds together, stays together.

Aayush plays Rahul, a violent village boy who migrates to Pune with his family. There, his father takes up hard manual work at the city's Market Yard. This is not a life Rahul sees for himself, subsisting on crumbs and letting middlemen and thugs push them around. "I'll eat the whole thali," he announces proudly. "With sweet dish." So he falls in with gangsters, gladly – and gleefully – killing a few to become the Bhai of Pune.

That's a title screaming out for a comeback. It materializes in the form of Rajveer, a Sikh cop played by Salman. The actor had last draped a turban in Heroes (2008), mostly in military green. In Antim, he gets to try on red, blue and khaki variants. What's more touching, though, is his decision to swap out the bracelet, ditching it for a sharp, shiny kara. As for his accent, that's just asking too much. He slips from Hindi to Punjabi without the slightest change in texture or pitch. "Oye tu fikar na kar" lands as flatly as "humare haath bandhe hue hai (our hands are tied)".

Antim is a remake of the 2018 Marathi hit Mulshi Pattern, with the cop character played up. What is originally a gritty gangster story is dressed up as campy Bollywood fare. The film is concerned with big themes—land-grabbing, the abuse and exploitation of farmers in Maharashtra—but also plays as a bro-on-bro deathmatch. Its primary focus is Rahul, whose descent into crime and hedonism is held against the humble appeals of his father. Yet Manjrekar isn't quite interested in a character study. He indulges Rahul throughout, giving us a villain to root for (Vaastav, Manjrekar's first Hindi film, never tipped that way).

RATING 2/5

Aayush cuts an odd figure between Jesse Pinkman and a young Sanjay Dutt. This is his show, sprinting and snickering and shooting enemies in the chest. Salman, of course, knows this, and has to deliberately subordinate himself in scenes (it doesn't work—since Manjrekar knows he's making a Salman Khan film and has to at least deliver the goods). The ensuing tension leaves little room for anyone else. Upendra Limaye, who was the cop in Mulshi Pattern, is now a gangster — says something about Bollywood remakes — and Jissu Sengupta's tapodi accent never leaves Tollygunj.

My favourite, by far, is Sachin Khedekar as Rahul's father. Receiving his son after a hard day's work, his hunched shoulders drop even further. Rahul says he's changing his ways, that the future is looking bright. "I'm joining politics," he informs. Sachin's expression in the scene is to die for. "Go on, son!" he appears to scream. "Do me proud."

Lady Gaga shines bright in an unengaging film

HOUSE OF GUCCI

Cast: Lady Gaga, Adam Driver, Al Pacino, Jared Leto

Director: Ridley Scott

BHUVANESH CHANDAR

HOUSE of Gucci begins with a shot of a gun-wielding man approaching a lead character. Before we understand what happens, the screenplay shifts to a few years prior. You know right off the bat that this story will lead up to this ill-fated opening moment. Considering that this Ridley Scott film is based on the real-life story about the decorated family behind the popular Italian fashion brand Gucci, the script is intended to also cater to those people who, like myself, aren't exactly familiar with the Gucci story. "I want to see how this story goes," as a character says. However, the said story is rather charmless and unsurprising.

RATING 2.5/5

Patrizia Reggiani (Lady Gaga), a 20-something woman from a middle-class Italian family has her eyes set on Maurizio Gucci (Adam Driver), the heir to his father, Rodolfo Gucci's (Jeremy Irons) fashion empire. Love blooms, but Rudolfo is apprehensive of Patrizia's intentions. An argument ensues between father and son, and Maurizio leaves everything behind for lady love. They get married, and we now learn that Rodolfo may not be wrong about his opinion on Patrizia. She pushes her husband to meet his uncle Aldo Gucci (Al Pacino), to dethrone Rudolfo. A tale of love, deceit and feud begins.

After Aldo's entrance, the film turns into an Al Pacino show for a while. The veteran makes you really feel for his character and his downfalls. He makes you laugh too, even if he isn't the comic relief in this film. That job is assigned to Jared Leto, who plays Paolo Gucci, Aldo's wastrel son who double-crosses his father, and shows a taste for unusual dialogue in unusual circumstances. When he ends up losing everything and, in the process, sends his father to prison, Paolo, in his heavy Italian accent, quips, "Never confuse s with choco-lato. They look the same, but they taste very different."

Every character in the film seems intriguing on paper, even if not on screen. The men in the film, Aldo in particular, break their composure in seconds. They have fragile egos, and it just takes one dialogue to change them from pleasant men to threatening characters. A great addition to the story is the character of Pina Auriemma (Salma Hayek), a tarot card-reading soothsayer, who becomes Patrizia's advisor and confidante. Though the character is sadly underutilised, she proves to be useful for Patrizia, especially when it comes to pivotal moments when she has to take dangerous decisions that can drastically change the narrative.

Though all these characters play their part, it's Patricia who owns House of Gucci, which is essentially a story about this big-hearted woman's quest to ascend to the top. In a world that refuses to accept her, Patrizia must also fight for her love and family. The ferocity of Gaga keeps you invested in some mediocre portions. Paola Franchi (Camille Cottin) enters the film from nowhere and begins to threaten Patrizia's marital life. She has to confront her in a way that doesn't spoil her already sinking equation with her husband. Gaga manages a dialogue exchange with a stare that seems to shoot lasers.

The same charisma in performance cannot be attributed to Driver, playing Maurizio. Perhaps it's because he is never really given a moment to shine, and you never truly get a glimpse into his character.

The exquisite production design makes this world feel rather dreamlike for a commoner. And yet, the great performances and such great production design get lost in this highly predictable, unengaging story. It's strange coming from Ridley Scott, whose recent film, The Last Duel, had some terrific writing. There is a powerful moment—again on paper—when Patrizia insists on being called 'Signora Gucci' in court. It should have been a cracker of a moment, but it just makes you feel for Gaga.
